UNION MAN KILLED
Edwin J. Powell Fatally Injured When Truck Overturns In Newcastle
Edwin J. Powell, 22, of Union died Sunday night in the Memorial Hospital at Damariscotta as the result of injuries suffered shortly after 4 p.m. when a truck in which he was riding overturned at Jones' Corner, Newcastle.
Powell's only evident injury was a fractured arm but it was believed that internal injuries caused his death. The truck was driven by

THREE GREAT SHOPPING DAYS!
Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week have been set aside by the co-operating merchants of Rockland as three great value giving shopping days. No artificial stimulants of interest will be used, no presents, no prizes. Every effort will be concentrated on giving the shoppers splendid values in standard merchandise.
The advertisements of the firms presented in the following pages will give you some idea of the exceptionally attractive prices offered in the face of a steady rise in costs. It is indeed a buyer's opportunity and a cordial invitation is offered to visit any and every store and see and appreciate these values.
To facilitate shopping, all parking rules stand suspended except that in front of fire hydrants. The full courtesy of all the city buildings and of all stores is offered shoppers and extra special programs will be presented at Strand Theatre.

REV. MR. DAY RESIGNS
Pastor Of Winthrop, Mass., Church Announces Here His Retirement From Active Ministry
In connection with his sermon at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning Rev. William J. Day announced his resignation as pastor of the Baptist Church in Winthrop, Mass. and retirement from the active ministry. Simultaneously his letter of resignation was being read in Winthrop by the supply minister of that church, Rev. F. W. Lockwood of Watertown.
The resignation is to go into effect the last Sunday in September, when Mr. Day will have completed 21 years with that church. Mr. Day has been in the ministry 61 years, having served five churches with an average of more than ten years.
Two of his pastorates were in New York State, the first at Treadwell, and the second at Cobleskill. The other three were in New England, the Winter Hill Church, in Somerville; the First Baptist Church in Rockland, and the present church in Winthrop.
Mr. Day comes from ministerial stock, his grandfather and father both being Baptist ministers, the former in England and the latter in this country.
Mr. and Mrs. Day will go to their home in New York State near the Capital City, where they expect to spend the remainder of their days among their own kindred in retirement from active service. Mr. Day leaves the Winthrop church in good condition spiritually and financially. A host of friends will deeply regret the departure of the pastor and his wife.
Although more than a score of years has elapsed since Mr. Day went away from the Rockland church he has remained firmly enshrined in the hearts of the many friends he made during that pastorate and those he has made on the occasion of his many subsequent visits. His address before the Baptist Men's League last Thursday night and his sermon of Sunday morning were proof ample that the veteran pastor has lost none of his energy or spiritual force.
Host of good wishes will follow him to the home of his retirement in New York State.

COWBOY EVANGELIST
Former Showman Is Holding Religious Services Each Night at Tenant's Harbor
Joe Payne, "The Cowboy Evangelist," is a man who speaks from a wide experience. Sunday evening he said I have traveled nearly the world over and had many experiences and met all kinds of people and I do not fear man or beast but there is one thing I fear my friends, and that is sin. The cowboy said: "I am here to help you down sin." He has been in Maine since last September holding evangelistic services throughout the State. He has been with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show, Ringling Bros., 101 Ranch, and a cowboy on XT Range for years.
A large audience greeted him in the Tenant's Harbor church at his first service. He presents an unusual figure as he holds forth the Gospel of salvation—not clad in "camel's

OUT OF THE DISTANT PAST No. 26

Back in 1893 the boom at Hurricane Island was still a healthy one, and on the horizon was no cloud to indicate that as a granite center the place was doomed. In the above picture are seen six of the stalwart men who were helping get out stone for government buildings. At the extreme left stands Joe Driscoll, still a resident of Crockett's Point. No. 2 was not identified for the writer, but next in order came John Thomas who was a tool-boy, Bert McNichol, and two men who were familiarly known as "Young" Hill and "Old Man" Hill. The picture was taken in front of the blacksmith shop by Arthur B. Packard of Rockville, whose uncle, H. T. Packard, was foreman of the cutters. Hurricane Island still had large enough population so that two school teachers were necessary.

ANOTHER MOTOR TRAGEDY
Charles Harvey Dies In Waldoboro Crash—
Douglass McAloney Seriously Injured At Owl's Head
A head on collision at 1 o'clock this morning between a truck and a coupe on Route 1 just beyond Waldoboro resulted in the death at 4.15 of Charles Harvey of Wollaston, traveling salesman for Hines & Coon. The truck was owned by Mrs. Alice Lermond of Thomaston and operated by Louis Young of the same town. Dr. Nicholson of Waldoboro was in attendance and the injured man was rushed to Knox Hospital after having been cut from the wreckage by Kenneth Olsen and Fred Armstrong of Thomaston.
Lieut. Cushman and Patrolman Foley investigated the accident and have not as yet completed their investigation but apparently it was a head on crash.
Owl's Head Accident
Douglass McAloney, aged 10, who makes his home with his grandfather, E. R. Quinn at Head-of-the-Bay is in a critical condition, semi-conscious, at Knox Hospital as the result of being struck on the head by the rear midguard of a car operated by Richard Reed of this city.
Apparently the youngster was riding on the rear of a truck and hopped off to pull his dog from danger. In stooping to clasp the animal's neck he either slipped or leaned forward enough so that his head came in contact with the Reed car which was passing, headed toward South Thomaston. The accident occurred near the Quinn residence just beyond the junction of the roads at Head-of-the-Bay. Patrolman Shaw of the State Police investigated.
Latest reports from Knox Hospital show the lad to be semi-conscious and in a slightly improved general condition.

SATURDAY'S RAIDS
Nickel Machines Seized in Four Places and Liquor in One of Them
A large crowd was on hand in Municipal Court yesterday to see what disposition would be made of the nickel machine cases.
Earle Chaples, George A. Tarr, Thomas Economy and Barney Tarnis were fined $50 each on that charge and Chaples was fined $200 on a liquor complaint, jail sentence being suspended.
The raids were made Saturday afternoon by Patrolmen Achorn, Christofferson and Price and special officers Post, Hatch, Phillips, and Drinkwater.
Persons having nickel machines on their premises are said to have received several warnings lately, and it is understood that the officials mean business. Recorder Otis presided over the cases.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL
By Dr. ALLEN G. BURLAND

The Tomato
What article of food has enjoyed a more phenomenal rise to popularity than the tomato? And from all accounts it is a most deserving ascendancy.
By all means encourage it, both in your own diet and for the children.
Consider these values. The tomato is a rich source of vitamins—A, B, and C.
It is economical and available all the year. Like the orange, its reaction in the body is alkaline, and so it tends to correct acid conditions. In fact, physicians are finding many uses for the tomato in special diets. For some persons it acts as roughage and therefore laxative.
Tomato juice and stewed tomatoes in a mason jar are excellent additions to the school lunch box. Moreover, tomato juice and milk are wholly compatible; that is, they can be taken together at the same meal. And fortunately most children like the tomato, for it lends itself well to many pleasing and tasty dishes.
The first line against disease in the daily morning inspection, says Dr. Ireland in his next article.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM
If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.
TO NIGHT
Swiftly walk over the western wave,
Spirit of Night!
Out of the misty eastern cave,
Where, all the long and lone daylight,
Thou wovest dreams of joy and fear
Which make thee terrible and dear—
Swift be thy flight!
Wrap thy form in a mantle gray,
Star-inwrought;
Blind with thine hair the eyes of Day,
Kiss her until she be wearied out;
Then wander o'er city and sea and land,
Touching all with thine opiate wand,—
Come, long-sought!
When I arose and saw the dawn,
I sighed for thee;
When light rode high, and the dew was gone,
And noon lay heavy on flower and tree,
And the weary Day turned to her rest,
Lingering like an unloved guest,
I sighed for thee!
Thy brother Death came, and cried,
"Wouldst thou meet me?"
Thy sweet child Sleep, the filmy-eyed,
Murmured like a noontide bee,
"Shall I nestle near thy side?"
Wouldst thou meet me?—And I replied,
"No, not thee!"
Death will come when thou art dead,
Soon, too soon—
Sleep will come when thou art fled;
Of neither would I ask the boon
I ask of thee, beloved Night—
Swift be thine approaching flight,
Come soon, soon!
—Ferry Bysshe Shelley.

THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK

Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord.—Hebrews 12:14.

NOTICING

Have any of this paper's readers, gifted with the noticing faculty, noticed—

THAT though this morning opened dark and lowering with a searching wind off the water, when those glorious notes of the first Baltimore oriole fell on your ear the whole world went lovely.

THAT if at this time, either by foot or car you make the passage over the summit of Middle street hill, the unfolded picture of the western slopes with the spread curtain of green set against them will richly reward that spring adventure.

THAT the steady outpouring of the Cement Plant stack with its confirmation of a weekly pay-roll suggests still further agreeable things to take place when the other stacks follow suit.

THAT when a woman is embarrassed her hand involuntarily essays a readjustment of her back hair.

THAT some day a group of those bright High School boys is going to turn to with rake and hoe and do a neat clean-up job with that piece of roadway bordering the southern side of their playground.

THAT you'd like to have somebody explain why the large variety of the fruit was known as English Strawberry, and why and when that designation of it passed out of general usage.

THAT among the myriad delightful touches of seasonal activity is the out-of-window spectacle of robin red-breast, with braced feet, coaxing out of the sod the reluctant breakfast worm.

THAT you still find it impossible to understand why the announcer or platform artist insists upon alluding to the literary menu of the evening as his program.

THAT the gentleman who had it in mind to snitch the parked car, encountering the sign on its door, "Waltham Watches," looked furtively around but decided to take no chances.

THAT the rhubarb pie, a recognized delicacy of spring, is essentially the creation of a perfect lady endowed with such sense of gastronomic proportions as does not permit any withholding of the sugar.

THAT you have given to the matter deep and earnest thought without being able to understand why it is that the early attempts at juvenile speech should disclose themselves in a whine.

THAT amid the changes wrought by the inexorable hand of custom, the eye of travel notes the finality with which the feminine exponent of the mannikin art has banished from the barber-shops of the land those easy phases of masculine conversation and the eagerly consulted pages of the pink Police Gazette.

THAT when upon the printed page the communication in prose or verse found your approval, and you passed to the writer of it a note of appreciation, there was made happy not alone its author, but as well yourself, because of the "word fitly spoken," sensing "how good it is."

THAT when it comes to initiating the young boy into the deplorable regions of the gambler, there is no instrument to be employed so insidious or so lacking even in the sporting elements of chance as the slot machine.

THAT these pictured winners of the so-called beauty contests convey an impression that before submitting herself to the researches of the camera the young lady must have omitted the contributory ceremonies of the make-up box.

THAT when too late you discovered the three-cent stamp employed upon the drop-letter a sense of extravagance ran annoyingly through every after-transaction of the day.

THAT as you read of the filed inventory disclosing the personal estate of Cyrus H. K. Curtis at nearly nineteen millions of dollars, following many other millions given away, and recall that his career began in boyhood with a capital of three cents, you agree with Mr. Bok that there is romance in business, adding to the thought your own reflection that this attainment of success was developed under long established rules that called for no modern panaceas.

SOME BASEBALL RESULTS

Collegians Had Easy Picking Sunday—School Games—Westberg To Manage St. George

This Week's Games
Wednesday—Camden at Rockland; Thomaston at St. George; Lincoln at Vinalhaven.
Friday—Camden at Thomaston.
Saturday—Lincoln at St. George; Rockland at Vinalhaven.

Any doubt about St. George having baseball this season was finally dispelled yesterday with the announcement that Westberg is to manage the team, and that Simmons and Archer of The Collegians will play in that town. Extensive improvements are being made on the St. George grounds.

One of the most interested spectators at the St. George-Rockland game Saturday was Clayton Hunnewell, principal of St. George High School. He is very proud of his boys and rooted lustily for them throughout the game.

Vinalhaven High played in Camden Friday and added another one-sided victory to its list. The score was 7 to 0.

Collegians 17, Orioles 2

The Collegians played high class baseball at Community Park Sunday, but it wasn't necessary, for the reason that the team which came here under the name of Orono Orioles furnished very weak competition. Maybe the Orioles can sing, but they cannot play the brand of baseball that the crowd was expecting.

The Collegians ran wild on bases, reaching home many times when an ordinary play would have shut them out at the plate. The shivering spectators eventually accepted it as a comedy contest, and devoted their serious comment to that short right field, which in its present condition is certainly an eyesore.

Two passes, a double by Archer, a single by Fowler and Meagher's failure to hold a fielded ball, netted The Collegians three runs in their first time at bat—enough to win the game, as it proved. Nobody could guess that at the time, although the handwriting was early on the wall.

Simmons held the Orioles to three scattered hits during the six innings he officiated. He then gave away to Shirley, a member of the Kickapoo crew, who formerly played in the Boston Twilight League Shirley got away to a bad start passing one man and allowing Doucette a triple, but he also fanned two, and only one score resulted. He is a port-sider, with good speed and curves, and fanned six men in his four innings on the mound. Looks as though he would be an asset. The three Orono pitchers will never be indicted for setting the world afire, but nobody could accuse them of not trying.

Black, in spite of his three errors at short, made several excellent plays and Doucette covered second in good style. Eb. Grafton's return to the game was welcomed. In six times at bat he made two singles and a double and walked three—a perfect day, so to speak.

St. George 7, Rockland 5

Nobody underestimated the team from Tenants Harbor when it showed at Community Park Saturday, for the team which can hold Vinalhaven

High to three-scores this season must have some calibre.

Coach Durrell's team held the edge until the seventh inning, however, and the fans then learned why the seventh is called the "fatal inning."

Rockland scored one run in each of its first three innings, a double by Allen and triples by Bartlett and Dondis being chiefly instrumental. Gray faltered in the last half of the third, and issued three passes, which were good for two runs when Murgita dropped the throw which would easily have retired Anderson at second.

The game then slid along on goose eggs until the seventh, which Rockland opened nicely when Allen singled on top of two St. George errors. So when St. George went to bat in the last half of the seventh it was two runs in arrears. Lowell singled, but would have been an easy out at second had not Murgita dropped Karl's throw. Smalley fanned, but Kulju came across with the single that sent Lowell home, and the other two baserunners scored on Pease's single—literally a case of the pitcher winning his own game.

Rockland scored once more in the eighth on a single by Ellis, following Bartlett's second triple, but incautious baserunning lost the home team its glorious opportunity. St. George scored one each in the eighth and ninth.

Two exceptionally good plays were made by Allen and Murgita, and the crowd had a chance to admire some fine infield work by Wiley, Anderson and Smalley.

Boys, Put Real Electric Light In Tent or Camp This Summer!

THIS is the season when the urge to "camp out" seizes all of us. Whether we put up a tent in the back yard, or build a shack or clubhouse in the woods, we all want to get out in the open. And the more comfortable the tent or shack is, the more fun we are going to have.

Nothing makes a camp more unsatisfactory than poor lighting. The fun that could be had in a tent or shack on a rainy day is half spoiled if the place is dark. Yet about the easiest thing in the world to make and install is a real electric light.

Take a tin wash basin, or a round tin pan, and attach a small electric light socket to the inside bottom. Punch holes for the socket screws and make a couple of extra holes for a wire loop by which the pan may be attached to the ridge pole of the tent. If the light is to be put up in the shack, use the extra holes for nails or screws to hold it to the ceiling.

Loop two strands of wire around a dry battery and attach it also to the ceiling or ridge pole of the tent, as shown in the illustration. Then Rockland is to have a circus June 4, a truck show with lots of animals.

The Cushing folks have a supper at town hall Wednesday night, with Mrs. Gladys Orr, as housekeeper.

The patriotic bodies will attend Memorial services Sunday at the First Baptist Church, assembling at 10 o'clock at G.A.R. hall.

The Woman's Association of the Congregational Church meets Wednesday at 4 in the vestry. Standing committee chairmen will give their reports.

The Auxiliary of the Sons of Union Veterans will meet for sewing tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carrie Winchenbaugh, West Meadows. Picnic supper.

The Edwin Libby Relief Corps sponsors a cooked food sale Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Burpee furniture store. Mrs. Rebecca Ingraham, Mrs. Amanda Choate and Mrs. Maud Cables will be in charge.

The present downtown railroad depot was established in 1886. At that time there were two daily passenger trains, with H. E. Nash and Charles Tabor as engineers and Messrs. Woodbury and Ingraham as conductors.

E. A. Munsey and Dr. Dana J. Newman are making extensive repairs and improvements upon the Crescent Beach cottages which they recently bought. Dr. Newman is also having an artesian well dug.

The lecture "Springtime in Palestine" presented by Dr. Morris H. Turk of the Williston Church of Portland at the Universalist church Friday evening brought out a large audience which listened closely to the story of his tour through the Holy Land. The colored slides used to illustrate the lecture were unusually beautiful. The proceeds will go to the Knox County Association for Religious Education.

Pleasant Valley Grange, held another circle supper Friday evening with Mrs. F. L. S. Morse in charge. A card party followed the supper with Miss Susan Spear as hostess, assisted by Mrs. Hazel Bartlett. Honors were awarded to Mrs. Elmer Teel, Mrs. Bartlett, Clarence Wyllie, Miss Harriet Grover, Mrs. Edward Baxter, Mrs. Ellis Sprague, Elmer Teel, Mrs. Austin Moody, Roy Mank and Mrs. Mabel Bowley.

Miss Marion Harvie accompanied by Mrs. Esther Rogers contributed a trumpet solo on the evening program at the Eastern Maine Festival in Belfast Saturday and received an ovation from an admiring audience. Although but 14 Marion has been judged one of the leading child soloists in the State. She recently played a solo on the Caravan Mothers' Day program held at Keith's Theatre in Portland.

The annual meeting of the Josephine Botanical Society will be held June 26-29 at Vinalhaven with headquarters at Bridgeville Cottage. Daily collecting trips will be the principal features of the session, while during the evenings there will be the examination and identification of specimens and a number of short talks. Vinalhaven was discovered in 1603 by Martin Pring, one of the first British explorers of the Maine Coast, who named it Fox Island. Although the region has been surveyed geologically, it has received little or no previous attention from botanists and the magnitude and location of the more important islands make their exploration very desirable.

Byrd Antarctic Planes Abandoned Four Years Ago Found Undamaged

ON February 19, 1930, Admiral Richard E. Byrd and a handful of intrepid explorers who ventured 'way down under the bottom of the world in one of the most successful Antarctic expeditions in history, sailed away from their base at Little America upon the long jaunt back home. A terrific blizzard was riding in across the desolate ice-land and the temperature was tumbling rapidly. It was a matter of getting out in a hurry before the expedition would be frozen in for another long Antarctic night.

Behind them the men left abandoned the camp in which they had lived two years. Smoke was curling from the chimney of the administration building when the command was given to "shove off." And on a hill of glistening ice a short distance away were perched the two stalwart airplanes in which Admiral Byrd and Bernt Balchen had made aeronautical history in the polar regions—forgotten and alone in all their glory.

Now, four years later, Admiral Byrd and another band of explorers are back at Little America preparing for another perilous flight over the pole. And the two airplanes that withstood blizzards and a temperature of eighty below through four long winters are still standing ready to be put back into service. Thereby hangs a tale of which airplane manufacturers and alloy steel and oxy-acetylene industries are justly proud.

A Ford tri-motor and a Fairchild "71" seven-place cabin monoplane were used in the first explorations. The former was the product of the Detroit motor plant and the latter, which made the first Antarctic flight on January 14, 1929, was built at the Fairchild plant on Long Island with fuselage of chrome-molybdenum steel tubing, oxy-acetylene welded and rigged for interchangeability.

Fairchild has a Pratt & Whitney "Wasp C" 420 horsepower motor and a fuel capacity of 420 gallons. The frame and tail surfaces are of welded steel tubing structure. Developed of the stainless alloy steel tubing and the oxy-acetylene welding processes, which were pointed to as prime factors in the corrosion-resisting qualities of the ship amid the rigors of the Antarctic winters, was largely pioneered by engineers of Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation.

Wireless reports from the group at Little America contained the following paragraphs:

"The airplanes appeared to be in excellent condition and even the steel parts show no sign of rust. Part of the wing of the Ford plane is clear of snow. The tip of the propeller and one wing of the Fairchild plane are still above the snow."

It was also pointed out that the oxy-acetylene equipment cache made four years ago was found intact and ready for use.

HOME FROM THE WAR

Col. Philbrick Gives Interesting Anecdotes of Trip Up the Mississippi

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

After Port Hudson (Louisiana) surrendered to us July 8, 1863, my regiment was sent home, our term of enlistment having expired. We were put on board a Mississippi River steamboat and started up river on the lap for home.

We were seven or eight days on the boat from Port Hudson to Cairo, Ill. The boat did not run nights but tied up at the river bank wherever night overtook us, because (the pilot told us) no man could pilot a boat safely on that river who had been away from the job three months, and he had not piloted for nearly one year. Now he had a tough job, even by daylight. Our boat was a side-wheeler and burned wood.

Once a day at least, and sometimes oftener, we would stop at a wood-yard on the bank and "wood up." The crew of "rustabouts" so-called (all negroes, and there were eight of them), would march ashore each grab a few sticks of cord wood and bring it on board, chanting or singing all the while. It would take from half to three-quarters of an hour to "wood up." The whistle would then blow, the bell ring, and all would rush on board, or get left.

We soldiers were allowed to go and come as we pleased, on board or ashore. On the first day or two we were pestered with "bush-whackers" taking pot shots at us from the shore. The glass sides of the pilot house were encased with three-inch oak plank for defense of the pilot.

I noticed a sick mule on the lower deck. The boat captain said "The mule is about dead. Throw him into the river." The mule sank out of sight, but soon came up and swam for the shore where he landed, walked out of the water, stopped, gave us one look, and walked off into a field, seemingly as good as new.

Soon after we saw the smoke from another steamer, less than half a mile away across a neck of land, but we steamed all of five miles before we met her coming around the bend in the river. The river runs very crooked in many places. Soon we ran slam onto a sandbar and had to back off and try somewhere else. Often the boat runs onto a sandbar and crowding on all steam pushes over into deep water, only to find after two or three miles, that we are in a pocket. That is, where a sandbar makes out from the shore, goes part way across, then takes a turn and comes back to the same shore two or three miles below, maybe. Then there are "sawyers"—a long log that has one end anchored, on the bottom of the river bed, the other end free, and floating, and bobbing up and down as a woodsawyer does when working, pointing down stream. Not much danger to boats going down, but real danger to those going up. If the pilot don't see and avoid them the "sawyers" sure get tangled up with the paddle wheels, and then a smash. Floating logs, dead hogs and cattle, and stumps, are many times picked up and cause a smash. If that happens, then it's "get to the shore" as soon as possible, tie up, and clear the paddle wheels and repair damages.

Our paddles happened only to pick up small objects that did little damage but they would make a great racket while going around inside the paddle-box.

But oh, what a place to take a fine shower bath. In the space behind the paddle wheel, inside the wheel cover. Tons of water thrown against you with terrific force, and you holding onto an iron rod for dear life. But woe to you if the wheel picks up a dead hog or anything heavy and hits you with it. It's good-bye to you. You won't need to be buried. Your last resting place will probably be that which I will now try to tell you about.

There are many coves that catch and hold the flotsam and jetsam of the river when it is on its rampage. These places, many acres in extent, are filled with everything that would float. Houses, big and little, some with much of its goods and furniture. Steamboats, big and little, looking as if worth saving, but they seldom (if ever) are salvaged apparently, for the piles keep growing. All kinds of lumber from the biggest saw-logs to every kind of finished mill product. Bundled shingles, clapboards, plank, laths and boards along with dead animals of every kind. Mayhap human bodies. One thing that keeps these places from being visited is the stench. Also the danger, as they are alive with deadly snakes of all kinds huge rats and every other kind of vermin.

The pilot did not say if fire ever visited these places. We ran near enough to them to see for ourselves that, though some things looked worth saving, one would hardly want the job. There were long stretches where it looked as if there were no inhabitants, and these piles were mostly near such places. No one lived near them.

SIMONTON FARM BUREAU

There is to be an extension meeting on Happy Healthy Growing Children at Community hall Friday at 1.30, daylight time. There will be a film picture shown on "Build Early For Strong Straight Bones." There is also to be a discussion on feeding schedules and food habits. Forming a good habit is a step in character building. Public invited.

APPLETON MILLS

Appleton Town Team went to Thomaston Sunday to play baseball with the State Prison Team. Score 3-2 in favor of Thomaston.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moody had as guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. George Buck of Ellsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormack with relatives were Sunday callers at Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Currier's.

Andrew Beane and son Merrick are shingling the so-called Linniken house.

Will Woods of Searsmont with Ira Proctor as assistant has been repairing one of the houses belonging to the Johnson Estate.

A.H.S. will present a comedy minstrel show, "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf Revue," next Friday evening, at Riverside hall. This play is coached by Hal Stack of the Radio and Stage, and will include 23 members of A.H.S. There will be comedy and tap dancing. Two hours of wholesome fun. Admission 25 cents, children 15 cents.

Joe Quinn and Harry Smith of the V.C.C. Camp in Jefferson spent the weekend with friends in town.

The Thursday night prayer meeting will be held in the Baptist Church this week.

Friends of Albert Fuller were very glad to see him in the village Saturday afternoon. Mr. Fuller has been in very poor health all winter. The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Mink is very ill with pneumonia. Dr. Plumer of Union is in attendance, and Mrs. Leroy Davis has been working there.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Hughes and children have moved to Medway.

Twenty-four members of Golden Rod Rebekah Lodge attended the district meeting held in Union Saturday evening, and a few went in the afternoon. All reported a cordial welcome, delicious supper, and an evening pleasantly and profitably spent.

A number of our farmers report that their Baldwin apple trees are all dead in this vicinity. Last winter was too severe for them.

ROCKPORT

Ralph Blakely was at home from Winter Harbor over the weekend.

Mrs. Nina Carroll, Mrs. Marion Richards and Mrs. Marie Bisbee leave Wednesday morning for Portland where they will attend the Grand Chapter, O.E.S., and then continue on to Boston to join Howard Carroll, a student at Boston University, who will return with them at the end of the week.

TENANT'S HARBOR

Mr. and Mrs. Valmore Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Townsend of Boothbay Harbor were recently visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Niles Cameron's.

NORTH APPLETON

Mr. and Mrs. Ormond T. Keene, Miss Vivian Keene and Philip Keene of Palmer, Mass., spent a few days recently at the Keene homestead in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garland of Somerville, Mass., were guests over the weekend of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Aldus.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Gilley of Augusta were weekend visitors with Mrs. Gilley's father, Charles A. Towle.

Neighbors of Alton Pease have been assisting him with his planting. Several in this neighborhood have been ill from the prevailing distemper.

Harry Carle and sister Miss Hattie Carle of Camden spent Friday evening at the home of Bernard Pitman. The Carle family have just returned from a trip through the southern States, including Florida.

A goodly number from this place and Appleton village attended the services in Belfast Sunday night at the Church of God mission.

James C. Aldus has been painting the buildings of Miss Pitman at Appleton.

Many say their apple and other fruit trees, also shrubs and rose bushes were winter killed by the severe cold weather.

It is unusually cold now for the season, with frosts nearly every night.

The NASH PARADE a Million Cars Long!

... Nash Dealers Everywhere are Giving a MILLION DEMONSTRATIONS in 30 days!

AT the very beginning of Nash Motors, C. W. Nash said, "I will never build a cheap motor car." Today—after having built more than a million fine cars upholding that pledge of quality—C. W. Nash again says, "I will never build a cheap motor car." The Nash policy continues to be... Quality first, last and all the time!

To celebrate the building of a million cars—to reveal the quality attained in Nash and the new LaFayette—Nash dealers everywhere are demonstrating these cars to a million people in 30 days!

A million revelations of Nash Twin Ignition power and the "jeweled movement" smoothness of LaFayette... A million demonstrations of superior comfort... of a real improvement in clear-vision ventilation... of easy handling... of safe control... of results that verify the very latest in engineering and the best of both quality and workmanship.

We invite you to drive either a Nash or a LaFayette, or both. Learn first-hand what it means to an automobile when a manufacturer carries out a life-long quality policy to the letter, and to the tiniest detail.

Two bouquets of tulips, snap dragons and carnations were at the Congregational Church Sunday, gift of Mrs. Ruth Stackpole of Augusta, in memory of her father and mother.

Rev. Henry Webb of Wiscasset filled the pulpit at the Congregational Church Sunday in the absence of the regular pastor. There was no evening service.

Mrs. Katherine Overlock who has been the guest several weeks of her daughter Mrs. Lucy Starrett at Pleasantville has returned to her home.

The latest report on the David T. Burgh case is that Mr. Burgh was fortunate enough to recover nearly everything he lost and that the two perpetrators of the crime are lodged in jail, one of whom has confessed, while the other denied all knowledge of the crime. Rumor has it that the case is so clear it will not be necessary to have a trial. Mr. Burgh however, is suffering with infected hands where the rope which bound him cut through the skin and is undergoing hospital treatment.

A W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lawrence Among Speakers At West Rockport Gathering

An institute conducted by the Camden W.C.T.U. was held Friday in the chapel at West Rockport. The session was opened by Mrs. Bessie Luce, president of the Camden Union. Devotionals were led by Mrs. Emma Leach, whose words of encouragement were much appreciated.

Mrs. Hope Brewster, county director of institutes, was appointed chairman. Mrs. E. M. Lawrence gave a very instructive and helpful talk on the "Value of the Local Union," saying: "The local union is the thing. All other organizations county, state and national, exist only to be of help to the local union. Local work done, done well and reported, makes up the other organizations. If you would be a worthwhile worker, do something for your organization every day, and make a note of it, that it may be properly reported." Mrs. Lawrence voiced a protest against the fallacy of government that would raise revenue by exploiting children, young people and foolish women, in the dangerous cocktail and cigarette habits that strike at the very centers of human existence. She urged all members to make a protest by gathering up the story of the effects of the sale of beer and liquors.

Noontide prayer was offered by Mrs. Burgess of Camden. A pleasant social time with luncheon served by the local members was enjoyed.

At the afternoon session E. M. Lawrence, retired business man of Rockland and Miami, gave some very interesting and illuminating remarks, urging the members to use their influence to reason with people as to what the result of repeal of the State prohibitory law would be. Citing the results of repeal in other places he said that in the city of Miami for six months there had been 550 arrests for intoxicated driving, 23 deaths, 17 of the victims being children, whose deaths were due to drunken driving. To raise the revenue the federal government demands from sale of liquor, Maine's part would be $29,000,000. Can the people of this state afford to spend that amount on drink, when 36 per cent of the state taxes for 1933 remain unpaid, and the taxes on 25 per cent of the homes? This money would build a concrete road three times from Calais to Kittery at $50,000 the mile. One dollar for liquor is one less for business. The work for one laborer in the beer business brings $9,000 to the liquor men. Their slogan is, "Drink beer for prosperity," yet the youth who drinks and drives and hits, goes to jail. Is that the kind of prosperity we want to see in Maine?

Mrs. Mary Perry Rich, county director of the department of Christian citizenship gave a quiz on parliamentary usage, using the small handbook put out by the W.C.T.U. which State librarian, Mr. Dunnack has recommended as being the best he has seen.

Mrs. Mabel Heald spoke on medical temperance and narcotics and reviewed the literature and plan of work for that department. Their slogan is "Alcohol makes well bodies sick; can't make sick bodies well."

A group of children from the village school marched in and gave a short program of songs and recitations. They were addressed by Mrs. Clara Emery on "Why Not an L.T.L." Rev. George F. Currier, pastor of the church, spoke briefly commending the women of the W.C.T.U. for the great work they had done in the past, and for their courage and consecration in facing the task ahead.

Special music was furnished by a quartet from Rockport and by the Currier children.

Members were told to invite their friends to attend the Knox County convention in Thomaston Wednesday, when Mrs. La Mance, national lecturer and Mrs. Grace Howard, State organizer, would be the speakers.

THOMASTON

Mrs. Mildred Pottle of Cushing was a visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Robinson, Wadsworth street, Saturday.

Albert D. Davis, who has been confined to the house some weeks by illness, is able to be clothed and sit up.

James McNulty of Lexington, Mass., is caretaker of the Amos Mills farm on the Georges river shore.

Dr. Eben Alden and family are expected to arrive here Friday or Saturday.

Chief Engineer Thorndike of the State department spent part of Thursday and the day Friday looking over and advising concerning the park and playground project. He stated it was the best project he knew of in the State.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lineken spent Sunday with their daughter and family in Skowhegan.

The army represented by local players, and the navy by men from the U.S.S. Farragut, played a strenuous game of ball on the local field Sunday. It took eleven innings to decide it. Won by the army 11 to 10.

Earl McAuley of Rockland is a new employee at the Knox Hotel.

Mrs. Arthur J. Elliot and son J. Edward Elliot and Mrs. Lee Walker were weekend guests of Capt. and Mrs. A. J. Elliot's daughter Miss Barbara Elliot at Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass.

Walter Hastings and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stackpole and son spent Sunday at the Stackpole cottage at Spruce Head.

Mrs. Henrietta Levensaler who has spent the winter in Dover and Concord, N. H., has returned and opened her house on Knox street.

Miss Elizabeth Woodcock and two fellow students, Miss Margaret Mc-

Kusiek and Miss Eleanor Weatherbee spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Woodcock.

Mrs. Clara (Lemond) Watts of Tacoma, Washington, is visiting relatives in Massachusetts. Mrs. Watts will later visit her relatives in Thomaston, after an absence of 26 years.

Grace Chapter, O.E.S., is represented in the Grand Chapter sessions at Portland by Miss Edith Lenfest, past grand matron, who will call the meeting to order, and Mrs. Leah Davis, worthy matron of Grace Chapter, who is one of the grand pages at the meetings now being held.

Call at The Sign of the Ship, Elliot Street in Thomaston and see the attractive hand made gifts and other novelties, including a new line of beautiful yarns for knitting the fashionable suits and sweaters that are so popular this season.—adv. 61-62

Edward O.B. Burgess left Monday for Rochester, N. Y., to attend the meeting of the Northern Baptist Convention.

Mrs. Dorothy Schmid who has been in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Seavey, left for New York city Sunday to fill an engagement.

Miss Leila Clark, assistant postmaster, left Monday morning for Boston to spend a week with relatives in Massachusetts.

Mrs. Elise Allen Corner's Recital of the Dance, is attracting the attention of her many Thomaston friends who are planning to attend it Friday night at the Rockland High School auditorium.

Mrs. Cora Currier, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Vose and Bernard Whitten visited Mrs. Edward Bucklin in Rockville Sunday.

Dwight Stanley of Monhegan has his boat on C. A. Morse & Son's railway for repairs.

Mrs. Ann Day has returned from a several days visit to her son on Monhegan.

Miss Naomi Averill returned to New York city Sunday afternoon after a week at her home here.

E. P. Starrett is ill at his home at Mill River.

Mrs. Kay Studley and Mrs. Ora Woodcock attended the meetings of the Grand Lodge of Pythian Sisters in Portland last week.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary A. Hyler, widow of Capt. Halver Hyler of Thomaston, were held at the Davis chapel Sunday afternoon. Rev. E. O. Kenyon of the Episcopal Church, Rockland, officiated. The bearers were Thomas Fleming, William Montgomery, Lucien Green, Mr. Jones. Interment was in Thomaston cemetery. Mrs. Hyler was a native of Dama i-cotta. Her parents were William and Mary Jane (Carter) Hart of Union. She is survived by a son, a sister and a grandson.

Mrs. Bertram Copeland has returned from a visit in Portland.

The Flying Squadron under the leadership of Miss McDonald of Rockland put on a very interesting program of singing and speaking at the Baptist Church Sunday evening.

The singing of old and new hymns, interspersed with personal experiences, and scriptural quotations, held the close attention of those present throughout the service. The squadron idea is a good one.

A special town meeting at Watts hall at 7:30 tonight. Important business. Don't fail to attend.

Thomaston's delegation to the inter-school district contest in Rockland last Saturday, among winners in the tests set out last week by the University of Maine, made a highly satisfactory showing. Besides the comprehensive tests for seniors there were only four subjects offered this year—general science and the branches of mathematics. Belle Coates was first for the district in freshmen algebra; Wiljo Lindell first and Myron Jones second in sophomore algebra; and Charles W. Spear second in general science. About nine high schools were represented in the competition.

The Thomaston High School was represented at the music festival in Belfast Saturday by their musical instructor Miss Hall and Elizabeth Brown, Laura Beattie, Ina Coates, Elizabeth Henry, Marian Felt, Carleen Davis, Genevieve Bradlee, Agnes Lowe, William T. Smith, Jr., Robert Stone, Herbert Libby, Kenneth Keyes, Cecil Day, Ralph Davis, Russell Young, Harold S. Higgins.

The beautiful anthem Call On My Name was sung Sunday morning by the Federated choir, with obligato by Mrs. Grafton and Mrs. Williams. The sermon on The Future Life and Now was a thoughtful presentation of immortality as an achievement begun here and now. The evening sermon on The Inclusiveness of Christianity set forth its appeal to adventurous souls and to the conservative, its response to the universal need for God, and its response from humanity because of the cross at its heart. The gardens of Miss Margaret Rugles and Mrs. Josephine Stone gave the narcissi and red tulips for the day's services.

Ocean Along Panamanian.

Shore Boon to Natives

The sea along the Panamanian shore produces pearl, salt, sponge and coral, while inland many natives are employed in sugar refineries, soap, tanning, candle, shoe and hat factories, and in gathering tortoise shells for export.

Panama City, capital of the republic, situated on the slopes overlooking the Pacific ocean, is Panama's largest city. Its 74,000 inhabitants constitute about one-sixth of the population of the republic.

Colon, the second largest city, is situated on the Atlantic side of the isthmus. It is one of Panama's most striking examples of modern city development. Not many decades ago its site was a swampy, fever-infested island, but it is now one of the most modern Panamanian cities with about 30,000 inhabitants. Across the street from Colon is Cristobal in the Canal Zone.

Panama's population centers have become racial melting pots. On the streets of the capital the American traveler may be jostled by men from India, China, Japan, Malasia, the East and West Indies, the South Sea Islands, and nearly all the countries of Europe and South America. Census reports indicate that there are some 3,000 Orientals, 52,000 whites, 80,000 negroes, 33,500 Indians, and 268,000 Mestizos, in the republic.

"Artist's Proofs" Often

Cloud Value of Etching

The Evolution of Art says regarding "artist's proofs" of etchings: "When the design is completed the back and sides of the plate are protected by varnish and the face subjected to the action of acid, usually by putting it into an acid bath. The action of the acid, of course, will be only along the lines where the copper has been laid bare by the etcher's needle, and the artist must be very exact in his judgment as to how long to leave the plate in the acid bath. When the lines that are to be lightest in his print are sufficiently bitten, he takes the plate out and covers those lines with stopping-out varnish, then puts it back for further biting of the darker lines. This process is repeated until the darkest lines are bitten to the desired depth. The etching ground and varnish are then cleaned off, the plate inked and a proof pulled. If the proof does not satisfy the artist, he covers the plate with a transparent ground that leaves the design visible and makes such changes as he wishes and again immerses the plate in the bath. These 'artist's proofs,' which are, of course, rare prints, since often not more than one is made, are sometimes very valuable, throwing an interesting light on the artist's work, even though the final state of the plate may be much finer."

Oil Discovery

The first successful oil well in the United States was drilled for Col. Edwin L. Drake by a driller named "Uncle" Billy Smith and his two sons, in 1859. Work began on May 20 and oil was struck at a depth of 69 1/2 feet on August 23. Of course this was not the first discovery of oil in this country. The Indians had used it for centuries. Tradition has it that long ago a Seneca Indian squaw dipped her blanket in Oil creek in Pennsylvania in the vain endeavor to transfer to it the iridescent hues of the floating oil; though it did not color the blanket, this oil which was squeezed out was used by the Indians for other purposes. In 1927 the tercentenary of the discovery of oil by a white man in this country was celebrated at Cuba, N. Y. A Franciscan missionary, Father Joseph de la Roche d'Alion, in 1607 was shown an oil well by the Indians near this place.

American Humane Association

The American Humane association is a consolidation of various societies, formed at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1877, becoming a national organization for the prevention of cruelty to animals and children. The initial work of the society was to regulate the abuses in cattle transportation by the railroads, and to secure the passage of state laws looking to this end. It offered a prize of $5,000 for the best model of a cattle car that would make possible the feeding, watering, and resting of cattle in transit, and many improved cattle cars were brought into use. Prizes for essays on vivisection, its abuses and their remedy were also offered for competition in 1900 among college and medical students. Since 1913 the societies represented in the association number over 900 with an aggregate membership of 141,000.

Heat of Stars

Omicron Ceti, in the constellation of the whale, is one of the variable stars and the astronomers at Mt. Wilson observatory state that the heat of this star varies between 2,500 and 4,100 degrees Fahrenheit and the brightness increases or decreases 225 times during the fluctuation. Omicron Ceti is one of the cooler stars. An example of a really hot star is Zeta Orionis, a faint star, with a temperature of about 41,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

TALK OF THE TOWN

An Arlington Mass., subscriber in forwarding her renewal calls The Courier-Gazette the "I'd-feel-lost-without-it paper."

Rockledge Inn, Mrs. Maker's popular shore dinner resort, had a very successful opening Sunday, the number of guests far exceeding the first day patrons a year ago. Many readers will be interested to know that one long stretch of road has been entirely rebuilt, and is in fine condition.

Frederick A. Shepherd of Brooklyn has been spending a few days at his former home in this city, having accompanied the remains of his aunt, Mrs. Mary A. Hyler, whose funeral was held in Thomaston Sunday. Mr. Shepherd who was at one time on the staff of the Rockland Daily Star has been in newspaper work ever since, and for the past five years has covered Brooklyn police headquarters for the Standard News Association, a Hearst affiliation. His duties have also included coverage of U. S. District Court and many other important assignments.

Golden Rod Chapter meets Friday night, supper in charge of Mrs. Grace Rollins.

Aurora Lodge, F.A.M. will have work on the Entered Apprentice degree at a special meeting tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

Alton Wincapaw who has been a resident at Glencove for some time has bought the Stevens place in Warren and is occupying it.

One of the participants in the May pole dance given in the annual May Festival at Nason Institute Saturday was Miss Carolyn McAllister, a graduate of Rockland High School '33.

The Masonic assembly will be held Thursday night at Temple hall. All not solicited are asked to take sandwiches. The committee is Dr. and Mrs. Crosby French, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haines, Mr. and Mrs. Ames of Camden, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson of Camden.

Among the National parks to be included in the new series of postage stamps soon to be issued is Acadia, Maine, seven cent.

Edwin Libby Relief Corps holds its annual children's day party Thursday at 3:30, with Mrs. Eliza Plummer in charge of the program and Mrs. Doris Ames of the refreshments. Children of members are invited, and privileged to invite a child. There will be no supper, but the usual business session will take place in the evening.

W. A. Kennedy is now settled in his fine new store, next north of H. H. Crie Co. in Masonic Temple. The new location is ideal for Mr. Kennedy's thriving business. Light, commodious and convenient it wins kind words on every hand. The two large windows display the fruit and confectionery to advantage and the several show cases on the southern side display Lovell & Coval and Apollo chocolates and a wide assortment of magazines and newspapers, including, of course, The Courier-Gazette. A large soda fountain and cabinets and booths for R-Own and Frojio ice creams and a large tobacco department fill the other side. Light groceries and a department for the leasing of costumes and wigs complete the layout.

Knox County W.C.T.U. holds its convention tomorrow in the Thomaston Methodist church, beginning at 9:45 A.M. All meetings are open to the public. Speakers will be Mrs. Lora LaMance, national lecturer, and Mrs. Grace Howard, State organizer of the young people of temperance societies.

Beach Farm Inn on Route 132 at Jefferson will open next Sunday under the management of Mrs. Elsie M. Mank of Waldoboro featuring a chicken and steak dinner as a leader with all home cooking. Mrs. Mank is determined to win back for Beach Farm Inn the great popularity it possessed in the early days of way-side inns and to that end purposes a dinner of quantity and high quality, that cannot be readily forgotten.

The annual meeting of the Knox County Fish and Game Association will be held Thursday night at the Rockland Universalist Church with supper at 6:30—65 cents a plate. Officers will be chosen and Deputy Commissioner Grover will show some entirely new movie reels on tarpon fishing near Portland. No reservations for Thursday night's meeting are necessary; "just be there" says Dr. Walter P. Conley, chairman of the program committee.

Miss Maude Adams, famous actress, will appear this summer at Ogunquit in "Twelfth Night". Walter Hartwig will make the production. A version of the Shakespearean comedy will be used that emphasizes the comedy scenes. Miss Adams will play Maria. After the engagement at Ogunquit Miss Adams' production will be presented in numerous New England colleges, among which will be University of Maine and Bowdoin College.

The E. F. Kemp Golden Glow Shop opened at Senter Crane's Saturday. Presided over by Miss Hilda Tedford, whose work is to go about installing these shops, the space on the first floor near the main entrance allotted to the new shop, was thronged with admirers, few of whom went away without one or more purchases of the crisp nuts and luscious candies for which the Golden Glow shops are noted. Eating samples of salted nuts and chocolates were given as souvenirs. This is the 54th Golden Glow Shop to be installed in New England and New York. This week three new agencies are being established in Teconderoga, N. Y., and in Bangor, Waterville, Augusta and Portland. The high point held in all Golden Glow Shops is "fresh stock daily". Small lots of the various articles are carried to ensure freshness at all times, and as further protection, agencies are checked up by experts at intervals.

"ON MY SET"

Radio fans got a real thrill Saturday night when they heard the broadcast concerning the Chicago fire, coming from the fire zone. I was fortunate enough to be tuned in on WCAU, and the story was coming in so clearly that one could almost imagine himself on the scene.

Those who tuned in on "Little America" Saturday night heard a novel entertainment in the form of the voice of the huskies Commander Byrd's dogs were right on the job. The broadcasts to and from the Byrd expedition will henceforth come on Wednesday nights instead of Saturdays, at the same hour.

OUR JUNIOR PUZZLE

JUST THE THING!

If you wish to see a picture of it, take your pencil and join all the numbered dots together, starting with dot number one and ending with dot number twenty-nine. She says it is good to have one of these sunny days.

THE GARDEN CLUB

Hears Entertaining Talk By Head Naturalist of Acadia National Park

The Garden Club, meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Bok Nurses Home, brought Arthur Stupka, head naturalist of Acadia National Park as guest speaker. Members and guests had the privilege of hearing this slender, alert young man, smartly uniformed in government khaki. The lecture was illustrated by very fine lantern slides, many of them exquisitely colored.

Mr. Stupka opened his talk by giving some data on the discovery of Mt. Desert Island in 1604, and touching upon salient points up to 1931, when Cadillac Mountain summit road was completed. Interesting comments were made on the geologic structure of the Island, which, like every other boldly beautiful coast region in the world, whose origin is non-volcanic, has been formed by the flooding of an old and waterworn land surface, turning its heights into islands and headlands, its stream courses into arms and reaches of the sea, its broader valleys into bays and gulfs. Some Sound, Mr. Stupka says, is one of the two only fjords on the Atlantic coast.

Many of the slides were of the flowers native to the Park. More than 30 types of the orchid family are there. Among the types shown were the Indian pipe, pink lady's slipper, fragrant fringed orchid, royal lady's slipper, rattlesnake plantain orchid, and one with a yellow bloom which is very rare. Many kinds of ferns and mushrooms exist there. Bird slides showed the herring gull, woodcock, sandpiper, cedar waxwing, purple finch, humming birds, hawks, (red-tailed, broadwinged, sparrow, mouse, etc.), eagles, both common and bald-head, warblers, red start, and many others who have their haunts in the confines of the Park. The pictures of the humming birds, made by Miss Foudelin, a summer resident of North East Harbor, were exquisite. Miss Foudelin has a bird sanctuary on her estate and has become an expert in photographing wild life.

There is a variety of animal life, too, in the Park—deer, beavers, etc. Several slides showed chipmunk with greatly distended cheek pouches containing their stores of food. Mr. Stupka invested the humble barnacle with romance. In the description of the various trails on the Island, he showed particularly lovely slides of the trail around Jordan's Pond. It can be walked in about three hours, and abounds with plant life and unusual and picturesque spots. The slides of Cadillac Mountain, the highest mountain on the North Atlantic Coast with "its feel in the water," were beautifully colored, and were particularly appreciated by those in the audience who had motored over the road.

The National parks of the United States and her possessions are: Acadia, Maine; Bryce Canyon, Utah; Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico; Crater Lake, Oregon; General Grant, California; Glacier, Montana; Grand Canyon, Arizona; Grand Teton, Wyoming; Great Smoky Mountains, North Carolina and Tennessee; Hawaii; Islands of Hawaii and Maui; Hot Springs, Arkansas; Lassen Volcanic, California; Mesa Verde, Colorado; Mount McKinley, Alaska; Mount Rainier, Washington; Platt, Okla.; Rocky Mountain, Colorado; Sequoia, California; Wind Cave, South Dakota; Yellowstone; Wyoming; Montana and Idaho; Yosemite, California, and Zion, Utah. The Carlsbad Caverns and the Great Smoky Mountains are the most recent establishments—in 1930. Mr. Stupka gave out attractive and instructive booklets on Acadia Park. Anyone wishing other copies may procure them by writing to the Director, Office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations, Washington, D. C.

In the business session, Mrs. Leola Wiggins, president, suggested that citizens keep their lawns edged up with the street, mowed and raked, thus adding to the appearance of the city. She suggested that a spirit of friendliness be cultivated in visiting each other's gardens. Mrs. E. W. Berry read an interesting article from a garden magazine pertaining to the forthcoming State Garden Exhibit May 30-June 4, and Mr. Stupka announced that Acadia Park would have an exhibit featuring the Acadia Nature Guide Service, the plant life of the Park, etc.

Mrs. Maude Smith reporting for the committee to investigate the possibility of beautifying the public landing, said that until the gear and materials used in the improvement of the landing were cleared away, nothing could be done. The matter is to be further discussed with Mayor Thurston. Mrs. Joseph Emery reporting the progress of the development of the Knox Hospital lot, stated that the plowing had been done and that the harrowing would be done very soon. Then the lot will be ready to receive plantings. Gifts of fertilizer or money for the same will be appreciated, and Mrs. Emery again reminds persons having extra seedlings to save them for this garden. Seedlings, bulbs, perennials, and shrubs will be needed.

Miss Anna Coughlin will be guest speaker at the June meeting.

UNCLE SAM'S MONEY

Some Of It Being Spent For Fishermen's Relief—Park Near Camden?

Following a conference with Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins Maine's director of relief John McDonough expects to receive an additional $50,000 for relief of Maine fishermen during May.

Maine has already received $100,000 for fishermen relief in addition to the $400,000 for general relief in May. The fishermen relief money is being used as a rotating fund from which loans are made to the fishermen for purchase and repairs of equipment.

McDonough expects general relief funds for June to be about $400,000. The survey of the State for purposes of drawing up a final rural relief program will be completed in about three weeks, he says.

Courad L. Wirth, chief of the planning division of the National Park Service, will go to Maine the first week of June to survey the park situation there to ascertain possibilities of expansion of existing parks or establishment of new parks.

Representative Moran has asked Wirth to consider possibilities of establishing a National Park in the mountains near Camden, a project in which he is particularly interested.

Former Russian Empire

Now States, Republics
The former Russian empire is now divided into a large number of states and republics with varying shades of autonomy. These group themselves into federations, which in turn unite to form the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

The members of this union are the following:

1—Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic. This is Soviet Russia proper. It includes 40 former provinces of European Russia, three provinces of the northern Caucasus and the greater part of Siberia. Its component parts now are ten autonomous Soviet republics, thirteen autonomous areas and three independent territories.

2—White Russia, comprising the six eastern districts of the former Minsk provinces adjacent to the boundary of Poland.

3—The Ukraine, including one autonomous state.

4—The Transcaucasian Federation of Socialist Soviet Republics. This is a group of three republics and two autonomous areas in Transcaucasia. It formerly had as a neighbor a federation of the three other Caucasian states of Georgia, Azerbaijan and Armenia. These separated and are now independent members of the Union.

5—Georgia. 6—Azerbaijan. 7—Armenia.

8—Turkoman Socialist Soviet Republic. This state and its neighbor, Uzbek, are the result of a regrouping along racial lines of the old states of Bokhara and Khiva. 9—Uzbek.

Water Intoxication Is Possible, Doctor Says

The water you drink makes up 90 per cent of the fluid part of your blood. It carries through your body the essential food substances, the salts and the waste materials, says the editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Although you may be able to go forty days or more without food, you can live only four or five days without water.

Practically all physiologists agree that six glasses of water daily is a minimum for health and that eight glasses should be the average. But it should be borne in mind that too much water may be as bad as too little.

You may even get drunk on it. There is a condition called water intoxication.

If you are a normal person you may drink one or two glasses of water at a meal. Water, therefore, may be taken in moderation between meals and at meals for the good of your health.

Good drinking water is preferably cool but not ice cold. It should be available in a clean, well-lighted place.

Rolling by Ear

The origin of the word "Reader," as applied to old-time cigar factories (and in some American cities the practice is still observed), dates back to a curious custom. A man ascended a raised platform in the shop and read aloud to the tobacco-leaf rollers the news of the day. The reason for doing this was odd. Most of the cigar-makers were Puerto Ricans and Cubans, well known for their gesticulatory method of speaking, especially when excited. Now, the best cigars require close attention in the rolling process. The bosses knew this, and also the workers' propensities for talking. They therefore conceived the idea of having news read to the men to keep them from talking—and thus take their hands away from the business of making cigars. It is said that Samuel Gompers was once a reader in a New York cigar factory.—Washington Post.

Sound Travels Through Rock

Sound travels much faster through solid rock than through still air. In several tests by the Harvard seismograph station, it was found that earthquake waves set up by exploding dynamite rush through granite at nearly 17,000 feet a second and through an ancient igneous rock at more than 20,000 feet a second. This is high speed compared with approximately 1,100 feet a second, the velocity of sound in still air. Earthquake detecting instruments were used in the tests.—Popular Science Magazine.

Junked Tolstoy Message

About a quarter of a century ago Tolstoy wrote an address on peace for the conference at Stockholm. In August, 1910, when the peace conference was held, the paper was read in Tolstoy's absence and aroused many misgivings. It was considered rather extreme and assigned by the body to the archives. Through Tolstoy's literary executor, Vladimir Tchertkoff, the address has been published.

"Twice as Cold as Zero"

The expression "twice as cold" or "twice as hot" refers entirely to the discomfort of the individual, and even then are only rough comparisons of the state of one's feelings that depend on more things than temperature. "Twice as cold," and other similar expressions, cannot, therefore, be evaluated in terms of the reading of the thermometer, and have no scientific meaning.

Tenants Harbor Days

I have often wondered how many men St. George furnished to the United States Government during the Civil War. The U. S. Census of 1860 gave the population as 2716. The "History of St. George" (1892) reads:

"St. George furnished her share of soldiers during the War of the Rebellion. At town meeting March 4, 1865, $300 was voted to be paid to one-year men, $400 was voted to be paid to two-year men, $500 was voted to be paid to three-year men; to be paid to substitutes or drafted men, to fill deficiency of four men on this town's quota on the last call of the President for 300,000 men. A committee was appointed to procure a loan for that purpose."

Not very illuminating to a person seeking for number of men furnished during the War. Recently I received by mail a small, black covered book, 5 x 7 inches. It contains 19 pages of written statistics, some in ink, some in pencil, written by different persons, and contains the names of men furnished by the town during the Civil War.

Page 1: List of three-year volunteers in 1862, with the amount of bounty opposite their names. Timothy Richardson, William M. Richardson, Marcellus M. Parker, Charles C. Blake, Parker T. Rivers, Joseph McAllister, Obed Andrews, Ira G. Elwell, Oliver T. Mann, Eben Elwell, Albert M. Kellar, Freeman Elwell, Thomas J. Harrington. Thirteen men at $100 each, $1300. The selectmen had the paying of the above men and furnishing the money so to do.

Let us now turn to the "History of Eureka Lodge No. 84, P.A.M. of St. George," 1871. Mortuary Record, Fourth. William M. Richardson. Membership in the Lodge October 1860, and shortly after was elected secretary of the Lodge. He filled this position acceptably until July, 1862, when he enlisted as a private in Co. B, First Maine Cavalry where he served faithfully, and with credit to himself, until he was taken prisoner at Grand Squirrel Church, Virginia, May 1864. Finding his horse was severely wounded, he left him and took another, but returned to procure some things from his saddle, when he was captured, taken to Libby Prison in Richmond, and from there to Union Prison, Andersonville, Georgia, where he died Oct. 7, 1864.

A man of 18 who enlisted in 1862 would be 90 years of age today. In the Glenmere items in The Courier-Gazette I read the name of Capt. Obed Andrews, and I am wondering if it can be the same man who enlisted as a volunteer in 1862.

I have read this book through several times, and if I were asked the question, "Are the items herein recorded correct?" I could truthfully say, as do the witnesses in Court, "I don't remember." I am now quoting verbatim from the last page of the book. "Number of men furnished by the town of St. George during the war is 164, at a cost of $47,775. The above number filled every call made against said town. The above sum of $47,775 is just what the men cost, besides all other expenses, the three that paid commutation is added to the above number and the amount paid by them is reckoned to the above cost. There is now due the town of St. George (from Government) 112 years' credits for the three years' credits of men put in by committee, providing the war continued, and the present law in reference to this matter is not changed." May, 1865, Richard R. Wall.

You now have the Alpha and the Omega, pages 1 and 19, but—contained in the remaining 17 pages is a "record of war." Some of the names are of men I knew when a boy, gone to their reward many years ago. In the call of July 1864, there is a list of 67 names, I never heard of these men. It comes back to me now that I have heard that the "racket" during the Civil War was "bounty jumping." "Get your bounty and never go to war." As the "Preacher" said: "There is no new thing under the sun."

Boze.

NORTH WASHINGTON

Murdick Cramer of the south part of the town, sold his farm here (known as the Deacon Cunningham place) Friday to Palmer & Leige, coal and wood dealers of Hallowell. It is understood it was bought for its wood and lumber.

Donald Cunningham and W. A. Palmer are working on a new bridge being put in across the Branch Stream in South Washington on State Highway 126.

W. H. Grover who recently bought the H. F. Evans farm, has moved his family and household goods there from his farm in Windsor and will remain here while cutting off the lumber on the place. At present he has men cutting pulp wood.

Mrs. Roy Turner who became the mother of a little daughter six weeks ago, has not made as good recovery as was expected, and Saturday she was taken to the Augusta General Hospital. Her many friends extend their sincere sympathy, and unite in hoping she may speedily recover, and return to her home and family.

Samuel Kennedy was surprised one day last week to behold a big bull moose gazing at him from a field near the house. Sam looked for a tall tree, but evidently the moose was in a friendly mood, and not on the war-path, for he soon ambled away towards the tall timber.

Mr. Cole of Cole's Camps, China Lake, was in town on business Friday. He is interested in the pulp-wood industry.

Samuel Kennedy has moved his family and household goods from the Evans house, into the house on Grotton Hill, owned by Simon Turner, and will reside there for an indefinite period.

Murdick Cramer of South Washington was a business caller here Friday. Arno Bartlett, with a road machine and crew of men, was here a few days last week trying to repair the road, which was in very bad condition.

WASHINGTON

Mrs. Maude Woodbury of Jefferson is caring for Mrs. Nellie Stevens who is still confined to her bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Percival Pierpont left last Friday on a fishing trip to Moosehead. Their children Almond, Clyde and Ralph are to make a short visit with Mrs. Pierpont's parents Mr. and Mrs. Almond Farwell of Unity.

Ellis Maddox, Hazel Sukeforth, Frances Howes and Lilla Pierpont were Augusta visitors last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Tassel of Randolph were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey B. Mooers, Mothers' Day also Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis and children Kay and Marlene.

Several students of W.H.S. and parents attended the final speaking contest held at Liberty Community hall May 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grinnell are the proud parents of a 12-lb son born last week. Both mother and child are doing fine.

The body of five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Light, who died last February, and was placed in the tomb at Waldoboro at that time was interred in its final resting place in Miller's cemetery at Burkettsville, May 13. Harold W. Flinders of Waldoboro in charge.

The month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Creamer died May 18 from pneumonia.

MISSION WORKERS

Circles of the Universalist Denomination Have a Statewide Gathering Here

The meeting of the Universalist Mission Circles of the State of Maine, held at the local church Thursday, brought more than 100 persons, representing Augusta, Dexter, Dover-Foxcroft, Oakland, Pittsfield, Livermore Falls, Rockland, Portland, Waterville and Old Town. It was a day with a full program of activity and profit with opportunity for social enjoyment.

The auditorium, where the morning session opened, had effective decorations of wild cherry, forsythia, tulips and daffodils, contributed by members of the parish and arranged under the supervision of Mrs. E. W. Pike. In the vestry where luncheon was served at 12.30, wild cherry and other spring flowers decked the tables. The luncheon committee comprised Mrs. George Palmer, chairman, Mrs. E. R. Veazie, Mrs. W. E. Morgan and Miss Margaret G. Stahl. Mrs. E. F. Glover and Mrs. George H. Welch acted as the reception committee, aided by others of the local circle.

With Mrs. Milo Folsom, State president, in the chair the morning session was devoted largely to reports of various committee and department chairmen. Miss Alice Fuller gave a comprehensive report of the social service of various circles in the State, outstanding ones being the Congress Square Church of Portland, Bangor and Rockland. Mrs. McLellan reported for the North Carolina Missions in Maine, outlining their immediate needs, and Mrs. William Metz of Dexter told of the mite box offerings and their value. Several hymns were sung, with Miss Stahl at the piano, and Mrs. Morgan sang a solo "A Little Prayer," by Hamblen.

The first part of the afternoon session was given over to Mrs. Clifford Stetson of Old Town, a recently returned missionary from Japan, who presented a demonstration of house cleaning in Japan. Garbed in a serviceable, but attractive blue figured kimono, with a neat head-dress, with a reddish-brown obi or sash, and the long sleeves held back by an ingenious device, Mrs. Stetson gave specific directions for cleaning a Japanese house. Having lived in that country for ten years or more, she had undergone that particular bugbear of a woman's existence many times, and convinced her listeners that housecleaning in Japan is much simpler, despite the possibility of getting floor mats, doors and windows mixed up, and put back in the wrong places, than in the United States.

Later in the afternoon Mrs. Stetson gave an enlightening talk on "What Christianity Has to Offer Japan" in which she stressed the lasting good that comes from Christianity as placed against Shintoism and Buddhism. She touched upon the militaristic element now predominant in Japan, yet which does include the Christian Japanese who long for peace. She gave a vivid picture of family life, or the lack of it, telling of the humble place of the wife and how children, particularly daughters, are sold to secure money with which the parents may pay their debts. Mrs. Stetson's sincerity reached everyone present. All could feel with her that she has many loved friends in Japan and that her work there has borne rich fruit.

Rev. William Dawes Veazie, State superintendent of the Universalist Church, and pastor of the Church of the Messiah, Portland, talked on the delusions under which we are suffering during this period of transition and adjustment.

Mrs. Folsom read a letter of greeting from the honorary president, Miss Thirza A. Smith. Mrs. Ada Treat, recently returned from a tour with members of the National board to the North Carolina missions, gave a vivid story of the work in Clinton, Red Hill, Outlaw's Bridge, Kingston, Rocky Mount and Shell Neck. Her description of the work at Friendly House, directed by Miss Hannah Powell, who is known to many Rockland persons, was particularly interesting.

Hymns were sung, and Mrs. Katherine Veazie and Mrs. Morgan sang as a duet "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," by Lachner, with Miss Stahl at the organ.

An invitation was extended by the Waterville circle to meet there next May, and it was accepted.

A rising vote of thanks was extended the Rockland circle for hospitality shown.

Thirty-one per cent of the students in agriculture and home economics in the agricultural colleges of the 13 central states are former 4-H club members. There are more than three times as many as there were six years ago.

AS SAM SEES PRIMARIES

Anybody's Guess As To Republican Nominee For Governor—Dwinal Leads For Congress

Any time anyone tells you positively that so and so is sure to be the Republican nominee for Governor make up your mind either he is spoofing you or himself.

It has been many years since there was anything like the present uncertainty in a primary row here in Maine.

In Lincoln county four men were questioned as to the outcome of this primary contest for the Governorship nomination. Each of them was interested in Republican politics and a worker. Here are their views of what Lincoln is going to do in the order given:

First Man: It is a tough proposition. I have never seen it more difficult to size up. The difficulty is that as a whole the voters haven't made up their minds as to how they are going to vote. My judgment would be at this time, that Carlton would probably carry the county, as he did two years ago.

Second Man: Ames will carry Lincoln county. Carlton probably will be second.

Third Man: Don Partridge will have Lincoln county. There isn't a question as to that. He has been making a lot of friends down here.

Fourth Man: It isn't easy to answer that question, but I should say that the fight here in Lincoln was between Carlton and Partridge. Carlton carried the county two years ago and he has, it strikes me, not lost any prestige this year. Partridge has been gaining, for he has some strong friends down here and he has made a favorable impression, and will run second, if not beat out Carlton, as I see it.

From the best information obtainable in Boothbay Harbor and Waldoboro, Partridge is the strongest man of the quartet of would-be-governors. In Damariscotta and Newcastle, on the other hand, indications are that the advantage is with Ames. Wisasset and the rest of the county leans toward Carlton.

Knox county doesn't present quite so complex a proposition, but it has its doubtful points, because there isn't a solitary bit of information which can be chalked down as definite and permanent.

A month ago in that county talking with those interested in politics one would have been strongly inclined to say that Partridge had the edge there, with Ames and Carlton going nip and tuck for second place. Within a week a visit there revealed a changed situation. Page, who a month ago had just announced his candidacy, has begun to loom in the picture. His strength is growing. Men of political tendencies now say that they would not be surprised to see him carry the county.

Of course, there is an explanation of this shift. It can definitely be traced to one man, not that he poses as or could be called a political boss, but because the people down that way have a heap of confidence in his judgment, has said that he regarded Page as the best man to nominate.

This has switched the sentiment so that, instead of the talk being indicative of a Partridge win in Knox it now runs toward the Skowhegan candidate.

Partridge men are still working, so, too, are the Carlton supporters, and the Ames men, but it seems very definite that the Ames strength has shrunk from 1932 decidedly, with no indication of its being regained in this campaign. It is by no means impossible that either Partridge or Carlton may take the county in the end, even with this decided swing to Page manifesting itself.

Carlton, has one strong hold upon the people of Knox, Lincoln and Waldo counties, as well as Hancock and Washington. It is the Kennebec bridge at Bath. His strongest opponents have to admit that his dogged determination alone is responsible for that bridge. Each of the coast counties of the east benefited by it. As a result they have a friendly feeling toward him. In addition to that the Woolwich candidate was active in support of the Penobscot river bridge at Prospect, which was a further help to those counties.

Those Carlton supporters as well as his opponents are worried though from different reasons, as to the rest of the primary campaign. So far the Carlton campaign has been a surprise. It has been nothing at all like previous battles which he has waged. There has been no vitriol, no personalities, just an everyday sort of going. He has been telling the people what he stood for and what he opposed in calm and easy words. The fear of his friends is that he will break away from this in the closing days and explode, while the fear of his opponents, is that he will not.

Carlton is quoted as having told friends that he was going to cut loose, issue a paper as he did in 1932 and that he was going to say things in it.

The Congressional Situation

The Second District Congressional contest is going steadily and vigorously. With the exception of Mayor Wing of Auburn all the candidates are decidedly active in that they are traveling about the district, seeing voters, making speeches and in every way trying to improve their chances. Mayor Wing, so far, has refrained from doing any of this kind of campaigning though as has before been told, his friends have urged him to do so. Whether he will change his plan and in the closing weeks of the primary campaign make a swing around the district is yet to be decided by him. He was the first to announce that he "did not believe in constitutional prohibition."

The three candidates of whom one hears the most as to activities are Dwinal of Camden, Farris of Augusta and Bonney of Rangeley. They are constantly romping over the district, night and day. Best information at this time would indicate that Dwinal had a bit the best of the situation. It is generally conceded that he can bank absolutely on Knox and Lincoln county giving him a substantial margin.

Wing is conceded Androscoggin County, while Franklin is expected to give Bonney a majority. This leaves three counties, Kennebec, Somerset and Waldo, uncertain.

Ordinarily, Kennebec should be figured as sure to give Farris a substantial margin, but that county offers the other two of the six candidates in the field. While no one expects either of these men to win the nomination, it is believed that they will so affect the vote of Farris in the county that if he carries it, it will be by a narrow margin.

Of the other two counties, Somerset and Waldo, it isn't easy to figure out who can win. Waldo joins both Kennebec and Knox and both Farris and Dwinal have good supporters there, but it is a complex situation and no one can tell for a certainty who is leading. Somerset is another uncertainty. Kennebec is between it and Knox, but the Camden man has the endorsements of some of the best Republican workers in the county, which should count for much.

It is a pretty political contest, with either of these four, Dwinal, Farris, Wing and Bonney, having a chance to win, even though, as said, at this time the odds appear to be in favor of Dwinal.—Sam E. Conner in the Lewiston Journal.

THE MONHEGAN BAND

Interesting Facts Concerning Fine Organization Recently Featured In This Paper

The original picture of the Monhegan Cornet Band in a recent issue of this paper was sent to The Courier-Gazette about 15 years ago, by Mrs. John Field, daughter of the band's director and teacher, Ulysses T. Wallace.

The band has long ago disbanded and its members are scattered, some living on the island and others making their home elsewhere. One has died. Mrs. Field is the proud possessor of a beautiful baton presented to her father, as director of the band, by Dr. and Mrs. A. V. Barnes, former summer residents of the island.

The band stand still stands on Lighthouse Hill, mute testimony of the genial band of fishermen who were never too tired after a hard day's work to gather for an evening's practice. And they did practice faithfully. The band was second to none, in character and ability, and the members gave a great deal of pleasure to the people of the island as well as to the summer visitors. Business interests and other affairs made it necessary to discontinue their association and the Monhegan Cornet Band is now only a pleasant memory.

PLEA FOR THE BONUS

Adjutant of Huntley-Hill Post Tells What It Would Mean Locally

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:— Immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates (the so-called soldier bonus) will mean money in the pockets of every business man, every storekeeper, every doctor and dentist in Rockland. Congress can pay this acknowledged debt to the World War veteran without causing one cent increase in taxes, without the necessity of a bond issue, and without the danger of currency inflation under the way and means proposed in the Patman bill now pending in the United States Senate.

Immediate cash payment of the World War Veterans' bonus will distribute $2,200,000,000 in cash throughout the entire country. The average World War veteran living in this community will receive $500 in cash—money that will enable him to pay delinquent taxes, overdue accounts, and purchase the many necessities of life he has been forced to do without during the years of the depression.

Every business man in this city must admit that we are vitally in need of an increased purchasing power that will place more money in circulation and in the hands of those who need the things the merchant has to sell. If he will join with us in looking at this bonus question as an issue that is of vital importance to the people as a whole, and not only to the vet-

If You Don't Care for Life and Limb, Look Out for Your Pocket Book

NEW YORK—Higher speeds of today's motor cars, with quicker pickups and stops demanded by modern congested traffic conditions are among the chief causes of skidding and more rapid wear on tires, according to Iowa State College which has just completed the most thorough investigation of skidding ever made. Of the 756,500 automobile accidents in the United States last year, 27,160 were directly chargeable to skidding. These caused the death of 1,420 persons and injury to 30,200.

MARY A. HYLER

Funeral services were held at the Davis Funeral Parlor in Thomaston Sunday afternoon, for Mary Azalia Hyler, who died last Friday in Brooklyn at the home of her sister, Mrs. Addie E. Shepherd, Rev. Ernest O. Kenyon, rector of the Episcopal Church officiated.

The deceased was born in Bristol, Me., June 26, 1859, daughter of William and Mary J. (Carter) Hart, May 24, 1883, the day that Brooklyn Bridge was opened she walked across the new structure in company with Capt. Halver A. Hyler, and on the Brooklyn side a minister spoke the words which made them man and wife. The honeymoon trip was around the world, the bride sailing with her husband in the ship Loretta Fish. In 1897, while they were in the ship Alfred Watts, Capt. Hyler was suddenly stricken blind. His wife who had made a considerable study of navigation in the days when they had sailed together, stood beside him faithfully throughout the voyage, seeing that his orders were carried out to the letter. Capt. Hyler died 25 years ago. The widow treasured the memories of their domestic happiness and the memorable days they had spent together at sea, visiting many of the world's ports.

She is survived by one son, David Scribner Hyler; a grandson, David Halver Hyler; a sister, Mrs. Addie E. Shepherd, Brooklyn; two nephews, Frederick A. Shepherd of Brooklyn and Halver A. Hart of South Hope, and several grand nieces and grand nephews.

ART STUDENT IN FRANCE

Grand-Niece Of Arthur L. Torrey Is Winning Laurels Abroad

During the recent visit of Arthur Torrey of Elgin, Ill., it was learned with interest that his grandniece (the granddaughter of the late Willard Torrey), Miss Nancy Pedou is an art student in France under a notable scholarship award. At the time the award was made the following article appeared in the Courier News of Elgin, Ill.:

"An ability of promise along artistic lines, in which subject she has majored at the University of Colorado, Boulder, has won for Miss Nancy Pedou, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Eaton Pedou, 510 Barrett street, a year's scholarship abroad at the Paris Ateliers of the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts, Paris, France. Miss Pedou will sail from New York City for Paris on August 28, together with a group of 30 students of the New York School who are to continue their studies abroad.

"Annually a Paris scholarship is awarded to a graduating senior of an American university, and the selection of Miss Pedou for this year's honor marks the second time in as many years that a University of Colorado senior has received the award. Miss Pedou graduated from Elgin high school with the class of 1929, and following a year's preparatory work at St. Mary's Academy of Notre Dame university entered the University of Colorado."

Miss Pedou is the namesake of her great grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Torrey, the mother of the three brothers, George, Willard and Arthur Torrey.

WINS HIS GOLDEN BUTTON

I. G. Calderwood Of Vinalhaven Has Remarkable Record In Construction Work

A correspondent writes:

"I have noticed in various issues of The Courier-Gazette considerable space dedicated to Knox County boys who have made good in different fields of industry. Thinking you might be interested in devoting a little space to one who I think rightly deserves a few lines, I am enclosing an article which recently appeared in the 'Alcoa News,' a weekly publication issued by the Aluminum Company of America.

"Mr. Calderwood is certainly a true Vinalhaven boy and has bought his old homestead for permanent use during his declining years. It is doubtful if there has been a greater construction engineer developed in either Knox County, the State of Maine or New England."

The article from the Alcoa News follows:

Pittsburgh—A newcomer to the Twenty-five Year Club but an old veteran of construction was I. G. Calderwood of Massena, New Kensington, Alcoa, Chute a Caron, Calderwood and divers other company operations.

A simple ceremony marked his induction into our veterans' organization. No formal presentation address, no speeches, no dinner, no reception. I. G. Calderwood just opened his mail containing his Twenty-Five Year letter and golden button, then started off through the snow and ice to the job—and that's all there was to it. No fuss, no feathers. "I. G." is like that, as anyone of several thousand members of Aluminum Family who have worked with him, will tell you.

The several thousand have worked with him on many jobs, in the canal at Massena, on the Cheoah, Santeehah and Calderwood dams in North Carolina and Tennessee, on the Chute a Caron dam in the Saguenay river, on the docks in New Orleans and Mobile, in the plants at Alcoa and New Kensington. A construction man through and through, I. G. Calderwood has played an important part in almost every major construction operation our company has undertaken during the past 25 years.

He is a native of Maine, born at Waldo, but from four years of age a resident of Vinalhaven, when he has not been living on a construction job. His was the typical New England schooling, except that after the age of 12 his educational periods were limited to three months a year, the other nine months being spent at work wherever he could find it.

At 14 years you would have found him operating a hoisting engine in a stone quarry. He continued the quarry work until 18 years of age and during his last two years there was rated as a first class granite cutter. Men who have often wondered at "I. G.'s" uncanny ability to handle hard rock excavation, tunnel and foundation problems, can be assured that it was not black magic, for he obtained his experience first hand in the Maine quarries.

Although his early schooling periods were infrequent and limited, he found time to prepare himself for college and in 1891 entered the University of Maine, from which institution he graduated in 1895 with the degree of Bachelor in Civil Engineering.

From 1895 to 1906 he worked with consulting engineers and the Massachusetts Harbor and Land Commission, and for the next two years he was a dredging plant superintendent in Boston. Then on Easter Sunday, April 1, 1907, J. W. Rickey started I. G. Calderwood as superintendent of the Massena dredging plant. The operations consisted of increasing the capacity of the Massena power canal and the Grasse river, which is used as the tail race of Massena power house.

He was away from Massena, working on the New York State Barge Canal during the depression of 1907-8. In 1909 he returned to Massena to remain in charge of dredging operations until 1916. Those seven years constitute the longest period "I. G." has remained in any one place for our company.

After he left Massena, he really started to go places. Listen to this! 1916-1919 in charge of construction of Cheoah dam; 1920-21, dock construction, etc. at New Orleans and Mobile; 1922-23, superintendent of New Kensington plant; 1924, superintendent of Alcoa sheet mill; 1925 built Cheoah river railroad; 1926-27, built the Santeehah dam; fall of 1927, started construction of Calderwood dam; 1928, transferred to Saguenay as superintendent of construction of Chute a Caron dam; October, 1929, back to Tennessee to complete Calderwood dam; October, 1930, back to Saguenay to complete Chute a Caron dam.

After completing the Chute job, Mr. Calderwood retired to "Lumina" his 120-year old home at Vinalhaven.

He has devoted the last few years to eating, sleeping and playing contract bridge and claims to have set the clock back 20 years by this routine. Recently he has been handling some repair work at the Chute a Caron operation. He regards the dredging of the Massena Canal and the Grasse river as the most difficult work he has handled during his 25 years of tough construction for our company.

GIFTS FOR MOTHER

Grade 5, Tyler School, Has the "Grandest" Party In Its History

Grade 5, Tyler School, celebrated Mothers' Day. The first dandelions were watched, tended, gathered and sold. The money was carefully saved for a present for mother. The gifts ranged from automobiles to floor-mops, dishes, flowers, pillows, etc. Yes, one mother did get an automobile, (but it came from the 5 & 10). The gifts were accompanied by original poems.

The program consisted of poems, songs telling of our love for Mother. The music was by Shirlene McKinney, Barbara Robinson, violins; John Crockett, Carl Kallio, piano; Raymond Lindsey, Robert Brackett, Douglas McMahon, Elmer Pinkham, Arthur St. Clair, Bobby Pettee, banjos. A playlet entitled "Mothers' Day" was given by members of the class.

Miss Lorea Adams of Providence, knowing that each year a party is given sent a Mothers' Day card for each child, and is thanked sincerely. Ice cream and cookies were to be served, but 16 delicious "giant" cakes found their way to the party as a surprise to the children. Who do you suppose told Mrs. Evelyn Crockett about the party?

Sixty-four mothers, grandmothers, small brothers or sisters and invited guests came to our party. The grade felt especially honored by the presence of Mrs. Laforest Thurston, the mayor's wife.

Mrs. J. E. Stevens, Mrs. Arthur Wisner and all the mothers who helped make the party a success are thanked; also E. B. Crockett who so kindly looked after the ice cream, and Mrs. Anna Paulitz who acted as accompanist. All in all this was the "grandest" party ever given by Grade Five.

WHY do you suppose Chevrolet keeps repeating, in all of its advertising, "Drive it only 5 miles"? Here's the reason: Chevrolet engineers have tried out all the various makes of cars in today's low-price field. And they have proved to their complete satisfaction, the same things that hundreds of thousands of Chevrolet owners are proving in their daily driving: How much more smoothly a car travels with genuine, fully-enclosed Knee-Action. How much more comfortably it handles, with shock-proof steering. How much more restfully you ride, in a Fisher Body car. How much more safely you drive, with cable-controlled brakes. And how much finer performance and better economy are secured from an overhead-valve Six! In other words, Chevrolet engineers know for sure that the Chevrolet ride simply can't be matched by any other in the low-price field. They know it—thousands of owners know it—and now we want you to know it too, before you make your final choice of a low-priced car.

BIG FIVE LEAGUE

South Thomaston and Rockport took the lead Sunday as the Keag defeated the Dragons and Rockport had little trouble upsetting the Pirates. In the Rockport game, both pitchers were hit quite hard, but Pirates' errors, which should have retired the side, gave Rockport two scoring opportunities and they made them good with four runs in the third and five more in the sixth. The Dragons chased the eag 12 innings before admitting defeat in a close hard fought game at South Thomaston. Camden still remains a question mark. Their game with Battery F was called off at the last minute and it isn't really decided yet whether they are to be in the league or not. This will be cleared up at least by Thursday night. The standing:

	W	L	P.C.
So. Thomaston	1	0	1.000
Rockport	1	0	1.000
Dragons	0	1	.000
Pirates	0	1	.000
Battery F	0	0	.000
Camden	0	0	.000

Battery F will tackle the Pirates tonight at Community Park. Both teams will be after their first victory. Probable pitchers, Robbins and Gardner. Rockport plays the Dragons on the latter's field.

South Thomaston 5, Dragons 4

This game was played at South Thomaston Sunday and the big crowd was in a hectic state during the 12 innings that the contest lasted. While the score shows that 27 hits were made by the two teams, both pitchers gave a fine exhibition of their skill, Hunt fanning 15 men and Makinen 12. Putnam excelled in stick work with four safe ones in six times at bat, and J. Sleeper delighted the South Thomaston fans with his excellent fielding. The score:

Rockport 13, Pirates 5

Rockport, champions of the Big Five League in 1933, opened its season Sunday with a victory over the Pirates, 13-5. Manager Collamore used 13 men in the course of the game in an effort to get a line on his material. M. Graffam's unassisted double play was the outstanding feature of the contest. The score:

"SHOPPING...THERE'S A REAL TEST OF NERVES, TOO, MR. BUCK!"

Listen to what Mrs. Abbot J. Copeland has to say on shopping—and nerves:

"There's no doubt in the world that healthy nerves are vital to a man who goes out and catches wild animals alive. But take it from a busy wife and mother who spends many hours each week searching through the stores—trying to make the family budget reach as far as possible—you need healthy nerves to be a shopper, too! Tramping through miles and miles of aisles...pricing, comparing, judging quality and values...well, that's a test of anyone's nerves. 'Nerves' don't ever bother me, though. As for cigarettes, I smoke Camels. They don't upset my nerves. And I have never tasted such flavor and mildness."

Frank Buck, who has brought back many tons of wild cargo from the jungles of Asia, says:

"It takes healthy nerves to bring 'em back alive. It's a job packed with thrills, excitement and real danger. I never would have been able to populate half the zoos in this country, cross the Pacific 20 times with tons of savage live cargo, and save my own life a half dozen times by quick action if I didn't have healthy nerves. I am a heavy smoker. I prefer Camels, knowing that I can safely smoke all I want without upsetting my nerves."

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Jangled nerves are apt to visit us all. You know the signs—telephone slamming, frowning, hot words that wound others, worrying and fuming over trifles. If you are inclined toward jumpy nerves check up now—on your eating and sleeping, your habits of work and play. Make Camels your cigarette. They never get on your nerves.

Leslie Ford

ONE of the most successful of American women writers of detective stories, Leslie Ford is something of a mystery herself. In private life she is Mrs. Zenith Brown, and her husband is a professor at Annapolis. She started writing mystery stories in England under the nom de plume of David Frome. For her American mysteries, she uses the name Leslie Ford—and they're all best sellers. She reaches her peak performance in a short novel which appears this month in the American Magazine. She is still in her thirties, and has plenty of personality.

Members of Garden Clubs can compare these dates with those for our Maine trees, shrubs and herbaceous plants of same, or similar species. Norman W. Lermond, Director Knox Arboretum.

P. S.—Here in the Arboretum we had three plants in bloom April 1: Skunk cabbage, pussy willow and daphne mezereum. May 1: Anemone, hepatica (two species), early blue violet, white violet, hazel nut (beaked), poplar, bluebells and strawberry. May 10: Dandelion, azaela, alamaquia lavis (shad-bush), wild bush or fly honeysuckle, swamp bush honeysuckle, hobble-bush, rue anemone, purple-tinge polygia, red trillium and blueberry.

ROCKPORT

Schools in town will close June 8 for the summer recess.

Felix Salmond and family of New York will arrive Friday to occupy the Stone House for the summer.

Mrs. Edna Robbins was hostess Friday evening to the members of the T. Club. Next week the club, instead of their regular meeting, will motor to Rockledge Inn, Spruce Head for supper, the event being in honor of one of its members, Mrs. E. C. Moran, Jr., who returned Monday from Washington, D. C., where she spent the winter.

The Camden-Rockport Band and R.H.S. Orchestra went to Belfast Saturday to participate in the annual festival of school musicians held under the auspices of the Maine Music Supervisors' Association.

Following the regular Thursday night meeting at the Methodist Church there will be a meeting of the official board and it is urged that all members be present.

Mrs. Nora Porter returned Friday from Boston where she had been spending several days and is again employed at the home of Mrs. H. J. Cole for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Stevenson Jr., Mrs. Minerva Piper and Mrs. Anna Fish left Sunday for Portland to attend the Grand Chapter Session, O.E.S.

About 25 men gathered at the Baptist vestry Friday evening for the purpose of discussing the possibilities of organizing a Brotherhood Class. A supper was served them at 6:30 by the Trytohelp Club, after which Rev. G. F. Currier gave a very interesting and inspiring talk, using as his subject: "Turn Your Imagination Into Money." This was followed by an open forum and social hour with games. George Crockett was appointed chairman for the next meeting which will be held in two weeks. Plans for organization will be completed at that time and officers elected. Those desiring to enroll as charter members should plan to attend.

Mrs. Alice Andrews went to Rockland Saturday to spend a week with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Rokes and family.

23 WHALES!

LITTLE AMERICA, ANTARCTICA, April 20—(via Mackay Radio). Life goes along with us, smoothly but busily. Outdoors it is night-time and we don't stray into it any more than we have to. I am beginning to get accustomed to this night life—24 hours a day.

Practically all the men are keeping diaries, some of which will later be turned into books. I suppose. So far there has been very little literary effort. We've all been too busy. In fact, we haven't had time to listen to more than a few radio programs, most of which reach us by gramophone, most of which reach us by gramophone, most of which reach us by gramophone.

We are still digging tunnels. This is a simple but back-breaking job. We dig a trench seven feet deep in the snow, line each side with boxes of food or supplies and roof the whole thing over with big blocks of hard snow.

Dr. Thomas C. snow. In a few Poulter, our Com-hours or days the mander Pro Tem, entire tunnel is covered many feet deep with snow-drift. This house of George Noville's where I live is now completely buried. This snow, especially on the surface, is so fine and dry that it can sneak through the tiniest opening. If a hole two inches in diameter is made in a tunnel, the entire tunnel will be blocked up in twelve hours.

We are all alone here on the ice. All the penguins, seals and gulls have left us, for heaven only knows where. Even the whales have gone from the Bay of Whales, where there were hundreds of them a month ago. George Noville swears he is going to catch one next October and is laying deep plans for this personal conquest of his.

They tell me whale meat is very fine eating, black but tender and amazingly nourishing. I'll probably know all about this when we capture a few next time the sun visits us. Unfortunately, however, the best whales to eat are the blue whales for which I have a great feeling of sympathy on account of the meanness with which they are treated by the killer whales. Killer whales! There's a beastie for you!

In my opinion this is the cruellest animal in the world. They are smaller than the other whales by many tons, running only up to around 40 feet from pointed nose to flapping tail. But they are so ferocious that the big whales, on which they prey, haven't a chance. Their pet habit is to attack the big blue whale, eat out his tongue and set him adrift to die miserably. Coming through the Ross Sea on the Jacob Ruppert, I saw an enormous blue whale jump clear out of the water with three killer whales attached to him.

On the way down I had a long talk about whales with Commander Gjertsen, commodore of the Expedition, who has navigated these waters more than any man alive, having traversed the Antarctic ice-pack five times in each direction since his first trip down here in 1911 with Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole. He told me about the enormous steel whaling ships, mostly Norwegian, and called "Whaling factories," which come to, and sometimes through, the Ross ice pack and capture from 700 to 900 whales each in a single season. I thought this was a shame and told the Commander that the whales must soon be exterminated at this rate.

"No," he said. "They will never be exterminated. There are countless thousands of them in the waters around the Antarctic continent and the whaling ships cover only a tiny fraction of these waters."

"It costs about $1,500,000 to outfit one of these expeditions and if the average catch goes down to around 400 whales the expeditions will lose money and will be abandoned. Expeditions with smaller ships can never make serious inroads on the huge numbers of whales in this region."

These whaling factories are tremendous steel ships with great openings in the bows through which the whales are hauled. They smell awful. The actual whale killing is done with small, powerful fast motor boats, called "chasers," usually five to a factory. Every scrap of a whale is used. There is no waste whatever.

And now the Boy Scouts are joining our club. Well! I wish every Scout in America would join because I'm sure our activities will be of great interest to all of them. The latest troops to enroll in a body, I learn from the Club by radio, are those of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans Home at Xenia, Ohio, and the troop at Rigby, Idaho, the latter with 105 scouts. To date 156 school and college classes have enrolled and each member has received the blue membership card and the beautiful 20¢ by 27 inch working map of Antarctica all without cost, and the teachers have received a personal radio message from Admiral Byrd. Teachers and Scout Masters should give home addresses of pupils or troop members and enclose 3¢ stamp for each. Others desiring to join this fast growing national organization, without charge, should send clearly self-addressed, stamped envelope to C. A. Able, Jr., President, Hotel Lexington, 48th Street and Lexington Avenue, New York City.

OUR HOMEMAKERS

Hints Housewives Should Heed
By Carrie J. Williams, Central
Maine Power Co., Home Service Department.

Sandwiches for Children

It is getting nearly time for the apple trees to blossom—the time when children love to eat their lunches in the hammock or some other favorite out-door spot. Maybe you might feel like an outing too and take them in the car for a real picnic some place. May I suggest that you purchase a picnic basket, a water jug, some waxed paper, paper cups, napkins and spoons for such occasions? They will make picnics a treat for you as well as the kiddies.

Here are a few sandwich suggestions which are easily made:
Combine equal parts cottage cheese and cooked chopped beets. Sweeten with orange juice. Spread on sweet rye bread and place a lettuce leaf between slices.

Chop hard cooked eggs, and add chopped sweet pickles. Moistened with mayonnaise. Place on brown bread with a leaf of lettuce between. These are also good with chopped green peppers or chives.

Raw carrot, grated, mixed with mayonnaise. Spread over whole wheat bread which has been spread with cream cheese. Use a tart mayonnaise with this filling.

Under the Sea Salad

This is a salad which looks especially cool and inviting as the mercury creeps up:

One package lime jello, two packages cream cheese, two cups pears cut in pieces, one cup pear juice, one cup boiling water, one-fourth teaspoon ginger, one teaspoon vinegar.

Dissolve Jello in boiling water, add pear juice and salt. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat with beater until foamy. Add cream cheese, which has been creamed with ginger and vinegar, and the diced pears. Pour into molds and chill thoroughly.

Hot Milk Sponge Cake

I have had many requests for a cake of this sort and I hope the readers find their answer in this recipe:

Three eggs well beaten, one and one-half cups sugar, one and one-half cups flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, three teaspoons baking powder, three-fourths cup hot milk, one teaspoon extract.

Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored, add sugar and continue to beat. Add dry ingredients which have been sifted together three times. Then add the hot milk. Add extract. Pour into ungreased tube pan and bake 350 deg. oven for about 45 minutes. Remove from pan when cold.

STRAND THEATRE

A distinguished cast headed by Evelyn Venable, Sir Guy Standing and Kent Taylor and including two members of the original cast of the play are featured in "Double Door," coming Wednesday.

In the picture Mary Morris plays the part of Victoria Van Brett, iron-willed, erratic spinster who rules the destinies of the millionaire Van Brett family. Anne Revere is her weaker, subservient sister, and Kent Taylor her half-brother, who, with the aid of Evelyn Venable as his lovely young bride, breaks her control of the family and finds freedom. But he does not win out over her until she attempts to murder his bride. Then in a gripping and fast-moving climax, her tyrannical grip is broken, and fate takes a hand in bringing her life to a climax.

Barbara Stanwyck appears Thursday in "Gambling Lady."

As the gambling lady she plays only in the fashionable night clubs frequented by millionaire men-about-town and in the brilliant Casino of Monte Carlo. Later wedded to a wealthy society man, she is seen in the palaces of the upper world, although she is never adverse to taking a fling at the ponies or putting some society beauty over the hurdles for her jewels or what have you. The picture is based on the thrilling story by Doris Malloy which is climaxed by a murder for which McCrea is arrested, and which he can not explain without bringing dishonor on a woman. The story also reveals the grip on city life of the gambling syndicates and the methods they employ to take cash from the suckers.—adv.

Gay L. Waliz has returned from Amesbury, Mass.

Mrs. Irving Eorne, who has been visiting her mother Mrs. A. F. Stahl, has returned to Portland.

The next meeting of Pemaquid Chapter, D.A.R., will be held at the home of Mrs. Roswell Wing of Sheepscot. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. George Carlisle, Mrs. Thomas Stevens and Mrs. J. W. Loughlin.

Rehearsals are going rapidly forward for the musical comedy "College Inn," to be presented Friday evening for the benefit of the Waldoboro High School Athletic Association. Miss Irene Heinz has charge of the production and many popular local amateurs are in the cast. John Grant has charge of tickets and publicity, Earle Spear of advertising, and Lewis Boissonneault of the cast.

The Waldoboro High Baseball team defeated the Cony High team Jayvees, that had not met with defeat this season, winning by a score of 8-5. On Friday the local team won from Union 11-3 but met with defeat at the hands of Wiscasset Academy boys in a hard fought game, 10-9.

PLEASANT POINT

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mann had a load of furniture come from Boston last week for their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Morse were Friendship visitors last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gilchrist and family of Thomaston have moved into their cottage here for the summer, and have rented their house in Thomaston.

W. J. Morse sold a boat to Carol Wallace of Friendship last week. Mr. Morse is a very busy man this season and expects lots of business. He is very busy preparing for the summer people as they are all evidently coming this year. He has even had his truck painted and fixed up in honor of the event, and it would surely suppose that he had a new one.

"Better" THAN YOU CLAIMED"

"Your claims for it were very modest," writes Harold R. Boles of Davenport, Iowa, about his 1934 Pontiac Eight Sedan. "I find that the car more than fulfills all of them—motor smoothness, ease of operation, speed, riding comfort and economy (I am getting 16 miles to the gallon)." . . . Mr. Boles is but one of hundreds of owners who have written their praises of the big, new Pontiac Eight. Read what others say:

THE CITY OF SEATTLE
DEPARTMENT OF POLICE
"... It is the safest car I have ever owned. It handles easier than any other car I know of. The economy of operation of the Pontiac is amazing. I believe it to be the most economical car in its class and I have had much experience with many makes of automobiles. . . the outstanding car in its field in my estimation."

J. B. Osgood Coffee Co.
"... It is the smoothest handling automobile I have ever driven, runs just like a minute's trouble. It is almost unbreakable, but I am getting about 18 miles on a gallon of gasoline. If all of your customers are as well pleased with their cars as I am, in a short time traffic will be congested with Pontiacs."

FAYETTE CIRCUIT COURT
GEORGE E. DELONG CLERK
LEXINGTON, KY.
"... I have had no trouble starting my 1934 Pontiac under any weather conditions, and have never driven a car as easily handled. . . I get more miles per gallon from this Pontiac car than from any eight-cylinder car than from any six I have ever driven."

ROYAL CAB CO., INC.
1935 S. W. 4th
Portland, Oregon
"... The 1934 Pontiac I am now driving is giving me an average of 19.3 miles per gallon. . . You might be interested in knowing that our passengers speak very highly of the Fisher No Draft Ventilating system."

SALMON WITH EGG CIRCLES

Harriet O. Merritt Gets Endorsement

For Recipe On That Subject

Harriet O. Merritt of 104 Pleasant street has been awarded a Certificate of Recipe Endorsement by Better Homes & Gardens for her recipe, "Salmon with Egg Circles." This certificate, which brings national recognition to Mrs. Merritt is given by Better Homes & Gardens only to distinguished recipes which pass its testing kitchen's tests for dependability, excellence of taste, and family usefulness.

In addition to the signed certificate, Mrs. Merritt also received six copies of her endorsed recipe, each bearing the Better Homes & Gardens stamp tion gives this personal recognition and service to its subscribers. Mrs. Merritt's endorsed recipe follows:

Salmon with Egg Circles

Three tablespoonfuls of butter, 3 tablespoonfuls of flour, 2 cupfuls top milk, 1 large can of salmon (about a pound); salt and pepper to taste, 6 rounds of toast (or Holland rusk), 6 poached eggs, paprika, parsley.

Make a smooth white sauce of the butter, flour and milk. Remove the bones and skin from the salmon and break into generous size pieces. Add the salmon to the sauce, mix carefully and heat to boiling. Season to taste with salt, pepper, and a few drops of lemon juice. Place the creamed salmon on a generous size platter and arrange the rounds of buttered toast over it. Place a poached egg on each piece of toast and dash with paprika. Garnish with parsley and serve at once. This makes a tasty emergency dish and may be accompanied with a crisp vegetable salad.

of recipe endorsement, which she can give to her friends.

In awarding these certificates, it is the magazine's aim to provide proper recognition for the creative work done by women in their own kitchens, and also to raise the standard of accuracy and dependability of recipes as a whole. No other magazine or institu-

Gossip Champion

Raymond Clapper

AMONG Washington newspapermen, Raymond Clapper has the reputation of knowing more personal anecdotes of the great and near-great than any other veteran correspondent. He conducts a monthly gossip page for The Country Home, national farm magazine, which is said to be more widely read than any similar department published. He was for many years head of the Washington bureau of one of the national news agencies.

OUR BOOK CORNER

Oh, for the teeth of a timber wolf! "They cut like revolving knives," says Sir Wilfred Grenfell, "and are as sharp and hard as steel. They would be the despair and ruin of the dentist." Sir Wilfred's new book about Labrador, its fortunes, and its human and animal inhabitants, right down from the days of the Vikings, was published on April 24 "The Romance of Labrador" (Macmillan.)

On Shakespeare's birthday, April 23, Macmillan published "A Companion to Shakespeare Studies," edited by H. Granville-Barker and G. B. Harrison. The volume contains essays on every branch of Shakespearean study; The Life of Shakespeare, the Theatres and Companies, Shakespeare's Dramatic Art, Shakespeare the Poet, Shakespeare and Music, The Staging of Shakespeare, etc., all written by interesting and distinguished Shakespeare scholars. Controversy has been avoided, so the book is definitely authoritative.

Capt. Samuel Hadlock Jr., of Cranberry Isles, Maine, landed in Liverpool in 1822, with an Esquimaux man, woman and papoose, and many curios from the Arctic. The adventures of this strange troupe as it wandered over England and the Continent, reaping rich profits at country fairs and in royal courts and gardens, are told by Rachel Fields in "God's Pocket". This true story is drawn chiefly from Captain Hadlock's diary, with excerpts which show his very individual style and spelling. It is full of astonishing, touching and amusing incidents. For those who relish such an unlooked-for and out-of-way fragment from the past, there is here a rare tidbit. A tale, homely, genuine, and inherently New England, "God's Pocket" is a gift out of the blue.

A second public auction of the famous Fugger Library will be held by Karl & Faber in Munich on May 11. Manuscripts, incunabula, Luther prints and other treasures of medieval literature and the printer's art from the library of the noted merchant, Marcus Fugger, of Augsburg, will be up for sale. Among the manuscript works which exist in only a single copy there is included the original French manuscript of "Le Roman de la Rose", the first romance of chivalry, written in the fourteenth century. Also for sale are the only existing copy of the "Bonaventura" of 1488, and a "Thomas de Aquino", from the Gutenberg Press, which was printed about 1489 in the rare "Catholicon" type.

Honore Willis Morrow, who passes most of her time in her house near Plymouth, England, has returned to America for a month's visit. Her new historical novel "Yonder Sails the Mayflower", which Morrow will publish in the fall, is about the Mayflower's sister ship, the Speedwell, and her passengers.

A committee appointed by "The Christian Herald" has selected the 15 books which they believe will most effectively promote peace. They are: Beverly Nichols' "Cry Havoc"; Engelbrecht and Hanighen's "Merchants of Death"; Lawrence Stallings' "The First World War"; Vera Brittain's "Testament of Youth"; Norman Angell's "The Great Illusion 1933"; Devere Allen's "The Fight for Peace"; Philip Gibbs' "The Cross of Peace"; "Red Harvest", an anthology; Edward Shillito's "Nationalism; Man's Other Religion"; Florence Brewer Boehl's "The Turn Toward Peace"; Sir Arthur Salter's "The Causes of War"; "What Would Be the Character of the Next War", by eighteen experts; Will Irwin's "Christ or Mars"; Salvador de Madariaga's "Disarmament" and Erich Maria Remarque's "All Quiet on the Western Front".

Having just read "I Went to Pitt College", it is interesting to note a recent article concerning the author, Lauren Gilfillan, the young woman who went from Smith College into the Pennsylvania coal fields, lived with the families of the miners and described her experiences in her book. Miss Gilfillan recently appeared before the John Reed Club, 430 Sixth avenue, New York, to answer the criticism of Communist literary critics that she was merely a sensation-seeking college girl who did not realize the implications of her writings. Miss Gilfillan stated that she had come to feel a kinship with the working class and had learned from her coal field observations the meaning of "economic determinism" and similar phrases.

O. O. McIntyre was asked by the literary class of an Eastern college to list ten books most enjoyed during the past two years, and this is the list: Zweig's "Marie Antoinette"; The shuddery London gasper, "Harriet"; Sinclair Lewis' "Work of Art"; Matthew Josephson's "Jean Jacques Rousseau"; Burton Rascoe's "Titans of Literature"; "Men Against the Sea"; Morley's "Human Being"; "Little Man, What Now?"; James M. Cain's "The Postman Always Rings Twice"; "The Unforgotten Prisoner". McIntyre adds: "This list does not include 'Anthony Adverse', most amazing best seller. It is only fair to say that I could not progress beyond ten chapters, to me the dulllest of prose. I'm going to try again on an ocean voyage some day when the dollar quits acting up and making a fool of itself."

UNCALLED HEROES

Joe Skinner Would Have Marker and Highway in Their Honor

Un. on, May 14

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:— In reply to J. E. Chaples of San Mateo I will send a few words of greeting. Since his grandfather gave Uncle Peter the wheels to his g g I feel that J. E. C. has a rightful place in our gang and should be welcomed as one of us.

Peter often spoke of a small boy, and a little roly poly dog named Prince—said that they encouraged him with good attention while he gathered Northern Spies for Suley's dried apples.

Diamond and the two-wheeled wagon were quite a showy outfit and serviceable, too. Were they here today Peter might do a good business transporting the school children and taking the CCC men on weekend trips. I am told that J. Newbert, Major Bills and Capt. Sleeper, all of the vicinity of "Ginny Ridge" were citizens enrolled and trained for the defense of their State. I am also told that the old watchman's rattle which cal'd them together is still in the possession of some family in Appleton.

"Why not all hands rally round the flag and demand of Uncle Sam a marker to be erected in memory of these men who would have been heroes if called upon? The next step would be to build a nice highway to enable tourists to view the work! Possibly J. E. C. in his spare time will see to the matter.

Joe Skinner.

P. S.—I am glad that J. E. C. has faith in the bear story; some were skeptical! Now the bears out in California are tame and uninteresting. At Yosemite they have learned to knock on doors of cabins for hand-outs and they will stand up and beg for candy. They can be prevailed upon to pose for a snapshot.—J. S.

PARADE PRECEDENTS

Some Timely Information In View of Memorial Day's Approach

As the time draws near for the annual Memorial Day parade an extract from the United States Army Regulations on the subject is quoted for the information of all organizations taking part in the local parade.

The Army being the senior service, precedence should be accorded to the Army over the Navy at all ceremonies, parades, etc., on shore in which the forces of the Army and of the Navy are participating, without regard to the military rank of the commanding officers of the detachments.

The order of precedence follows: Cadets, U. S. Military Academy. Midshipmen, U. S. Naval Academy. Cadets, U. S. Coast Guard Academy. Regular Army.

U. S. Marines. U. S. Naval forces. U. S. Coast Guard detachments. National Guard—Marine Corps Reserve—Naval reserve organizations. Federally recognized.

Organizations of the N. G. Organized Reserve, R.O.T.C. and other training organizations in the order prescribed by the grand marshal of the parade.

Veterans and patriotic organizations in the order prescribed by the grand marshal of the parade.

Under paragraph 10 the present set by many grand marshals had been to place veterans and other patriotic orders in the order of the date of their organization. In a city parade the oldest city organization would lead, etc. Based on these precedents, in Rockland, the lineup would be: Grand Army, Spanish War Veterans, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars—this being the order in which the units were organized, auxiliaries of the above in the same order, sons and daughters of the above in the same order, non veteran patriotic units in order of formation in Rockland, such as Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, etc., all of course subject to the order prescribed by the grand marshal.

Visiting organizations would not change the above order, but within the group the head of the line might well be given a visiting unit. That is, should the Camden American Legion Post take part in the parade, the local Post would through courtesy give Camden the head of the American Legion section. The same would apply in the VFW section, but would not tend to change the order of any other section.

FEEHAN J. POST

Funeral services for Feehan Post, 79, who died at the home of his daughter Mrs. Arthur Ross at Peak's Island, May 14, were held from Russell Funeral Home Wednesday. Rev. J. Charles MacDonald officiated. Mr. Post was born in Owl's Head, May 22, 1854, son of Isaac and Elizabeth Post. In early life he followed the sea and about 1880 moved to Rockland and was employed in the lime industry.

In 1878 he was married to Lola A. Waters of Boston to whom three children were born. The death of his wife eight years ago was a heavy blow to him. He is survived by his three children, George Post of Medford, Mass., Mrs. Jennie Ross of Peak's Island, Harry Post of this city and a sister, Mrs. Amy Whitehouse.

Beautiful floral tributes evidenced the esteem held for the deceased. The bearers were Walter Upham, Ernest Packard, Raymond Bucklin, Ralph Gross, Interment in Achorn cemetery.
